BOTH FACTIONS CLAIM VICTORY AT LABOR MEET

A. F. O. L. Convention Becomes Political Gathering.

CRISIS IS NEAR

Powerful Coalition Being Formed It Is Rumored.

Denver, June 21.—The convention of the American Federation of Labor has become a political convention, with all the big issues crewded into the background by electioneering and the question of whether John L. Lewis, 41 year old head of the United Mine Workers of America, can oust Samuel Gompers, the 71 year old veteran of the labor movement.

With both sides claiming victory today, the cautious ones are awaiting developments before forecasting results.

It is conceded on all sides, that the veteran head of the federation faces the greatest crisis in his career.

The announcement of Lewis' candidacy caused consternation in the Gompers' camp. The fear now is of a stampede for the younger leader.

According to Lewis' supporters, he would not have announced his candidacy had he not been assured of enough votes to win. They claim he has already 20,000 of the 38,000 votes of the convention.

Gomper's supporters make claim of more than 23,000 votes pledged.

The talk now is of the coal miners, the railroad workers and the metal trades forming a powerful coalition to secure control of the federation with the building trades and other large crafts assured adequate representation on the executive council, the central administrative body of the federation.

Means One Thing.

Such a coaltion, it is said, would mean the inauguration of a sweeping program of nationalization as proposed by the railroad unions, which now have a resolution before the committee demanding action by the council to apply the principle of government ownership and democratic control to the steel industry, the coal mines and other basic industries as well as the railroads.

An almost clean sweep of the executive council is predicted in event of Lewis's election.

The superstitious ones predict that old General Coincidence will win for Lewis. It was in Denver, 17 years ago that Gompers faced the first and only defeat of his career, and then as now, the head of the miners' union was his opponent.

The election may be held Thursday according to the preset outlook.

A drama may be staged, whatever the outcome. Either the aged leader after an undisputed sway of nearly 40 years, will be made to surrender to youth or despite his 71 years, will show enough fight to score the greatest triumph of his career. The Lewis campaign is the first serious attempt to oust him. The younger leader is the first candidate to oppose him with suffiiciet stregth to be a formidable opponent, since John McBride head of the miners' union, defeated him in 1894.

RELIGIOUS REVIVAL SWEEPS RUSSIA

London, June 21.—Russia is going through a remarkable religious revival, said a Copenhagen dispatch to the Daily Telegraph today. More than 150,000 persons gathered in red square, under the walls of the Kremlin at Moscow, for devotional exercises. From the windows of his office in the Kremlin looked on and watched the patriarch bless the people. There were many officers and privates from the red army in the throng. Afterwards there was a procession, including many bishops of the "old faith" for upwards of three centuries, ecclesiastics of the "old faith' had refused to join the "orthodox church despite persecution to compel them to do so.

CONFESSED SLAYER OF KABER ENROUTE

Cleveland, June 21. —Salvatore Cala, one of the confessed slayers of Daniel Kaber, wealthy publisher, is expected to arrive in Cleveland some time tonight under guard of detective Phil Mooney, who is now in Buffalo.

The officer will leave with his prisoner some time after noon today.

Thus far no definite clue as to the present whereabouts of Vittoria Pisselli, also indicted for the murder has been found.

LICENSE ABUSES SUSPECTED

CSolumbus, Ohio, June 21—Abuse of dealers' licenses in handling of the auaomobile license tag situation was the subject of a statement by H. C. Smith, Secretary of State, as head of he license department. He promised to call to the attention of the Attorney-General all violations and asked for information as to the number of tags issued.

Complete Final Plans For Cross-Country Flight

Trip From Los Angeles To New York Will Be Non-stop Attempt Witn Object of Reaching Destination Within 38 Hours of Actual Flying.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 21.—Final plans were completed for the start, early today, of what is calculated to be a non-stop airplane flight from Los Angeles to New York City. The attempt is to be made in a giant airplane built by David R. Davis, which he has dubbed the "Davis trans-continental." The following is his own description of plans for the flight:

If weather conditions are favorable, I will leave Goodyear field Wednesday with Erie Springer, a pilot of international renown, in an attempt to make a non-stop flight to New York City. If we have good luck, we hope to land at Mineola field, within thirty-eight hours of actual flying time.

We admit that difficulties at first seemed tremendous, but in view of the fact that more than a year has been devoted to building this aroplane and four months of constant tests have been made since it was in shape to fly, we have cut down the great handicap and feel that we really have a good chance to reach the Atlantic seaboard, without landing a single time en route.

The Davis Trans-continental, as I term the plane was designed and built under my supervision, by some of the ablest men in aviation circles. I have spent between $35,000 and $40,000 on the plane and in arranging for the flight.

It is one of the largest single-engine machines ever built, having a wing spread of 56 feet, a length of 35 feet and a total area of 800 square feet. It is entirely of American design and material and is of standard tractor biplane construction. The motive power is supplied by a 12 cylinder Liberty type of engine which develops 440 horsepower.

Mr. Springer and I will be protected by every possible safety device. There is a duplicate equipment in all essential parts. A dual control, of a remarkable type, will enable us to change places in piloting the big craft. The fire hazards are reduced to a minimum. We can get rid of our gasoline supply in fifty seconds. There are two asbestos curtains between the engine and the cockpit in which we ride. We will carry parachutes on our backs and a red cross kit for emergencies. We will carry lots of substantial food and a complete supply of maps.

The machine will carry 670 gallons of gasoline, 55 gallons of oil and 30 gallons of water. The total weight of the loaded ship will be 9,500 pounds. For night emergency purposes, we will have four huge flares.

Mr. Springer and I are hopeful of being able to fly back to Los Angeles from New York City to attend the international aviation meet here July 16.

TROOPS GUARD BRITISH KING IN IRISH CITY

Plans Are Laid For Visit To City Of Belfast.

Belfast, June 21.—Heavy reinforcements of troops and police are arriving here to guard King George and Queen Mary during the ceremonies attending the state opening of the northern Ireland (Ulster) parliament tomorrow. The Irish guards, brought especially from Aldershot, will lead the royal procession through the streets of this city.

Only $8,000 has been subscribed in response to the lord mayor's appeal for $500,000 to defray expenses of the celebration in honor of the King and queen. The lord mayor is deeply disappointed over the poor showing.

Between 10,000 and 20,000 soldiers, sailors, policemen and plain clothes detectives will line the street when king and queen enter this historic city and ride in state from the pier to parliament building.

Thirteen British warships will escort the royal yachts Albert and Victor to this city. The voyage will be made tonight. Extraordinary precautions have been made to prevent any kind of a political demonstration.

No persons will be allowed upon the roofs of the buildings along the way except policemen. The saloons in the city will be closed until 5:30 in the afternoon.

More than 6,000 picked soldiers will be stationed in Belfast and besides the soldiers, there will be between 2,000 and 3,000 special constables reinforcing the regular police force. More than 300 secret service agents from London and Dublin will mingle with the crowds.

King George is reported to have protested against such elaborate safeguarding but the military authorities insisted that every possible precaution should be taken to guard his life, in view of the turbulent situation now existing in Ireland.

Vanderlip To Tell "Truth" About Russia Upon Return

Head of American Syndicate Declares Hughes and Hoover Are Ignorant of Conditions as They Are In Russia—Will Start Campaign.

New York, June 21.—Washington D. Vanderlip, head of the American syndicate which has secured commercial concessions in Russia, will begin a national "campaign of education about Russia," when he arrives in this country tomorrow on board the liner Olympic. Announcement to this effect was contained in a wireless dispatch received by the International News Service from the promoter today.

The radiogram which was a reply to a queery as to Mr. Vanderlip's future program, follows:

"I intend to go before the real government—the American people, with press articles and lectures. Later, I shall go to Washington to talk with members of the administration. I believe that the administration must rise or fall according to its future antitude regarding Europe and Russia is the crux of the European situation.

"Secretary of the state Hughes and Secretary Hoover are ignorant regarding the truth. They have been misinformed by former prisoners of the revolutionists and by entente propaganda.

"The British white book sent to Secretary Hughes should have had a black cover, with a skull and cross bones. If the contents of this book are true why did England recognize Russia?.

"Secretary Hnughes and Secretary Hoover are always defeated because they are always on the wrong side. I consider victory easy. My biggest job was pushing England over the top. I expect an onslaught of government propaganda from the Civic Federation and the American Chamber of Commerce, but the more, the merrier. I am armed with the truth, with facts they do not possess.

"The syndicate (American syndicate headed by Vanderlip) is not in this for money. My last instructions from the directors were:

"'Put over a big thing—peace and reconstruction—concessions are secondary.'

"Everything is going according to schedule. The naval bases, the Murmansk pulpwood concession and the Kamtchatka concession are secure for all time."

Before leaving London, Mr. Vanderlip announced that the soviet government at Moscow had offered United States two naval bases on the Siberian coast in perpetuity, if the United States will open trade relations with Russia. That explained Mr. Vanderlip's reference to naval bases.

JUDGE CLAIMS SUPREME COURT DECISION NULLIFIES REFERENDUM

"Another Dred Scott Decision" Says Wanamaker—Judge Johnson Characterizes Dunn Act as "Comprehensive, Revolutionary Ripper Bill" in Interview

Columbus, O., June 21.—That the recent majority opinion of the state supreme court upholding the constitutionality of the emergency clause attached to the Dunn act providing for reorganization of state departments, practically nullified the practicability of the referendum provision of the state constitution is the claim made by State Supreme Judges Wanamaker, Republican and Johnson, Democrat, in dissenting opinions.

"I fear this is another Dred Scott decision," declared Judge Wanamaker. He said that the majority ruling "undermines the public confidence in our legislators, but it undermines ten fold more the public confidence in our courts." Referring to the declaration in the majority opinion that the judges had no judicial knowledge of anything to show the Dunn act was not an emergency, Judge Wanamaker said:

"What we commonly know as men, we cannot know as judge."

Judge Johnson characterized the Dunn act as a "comprehensive, revolutionary ripper bill." He declared that to hold it an emergency necessary for the immediate preservation of the public health, peace and safety, amounts to holding the initiative and referendum "a meaningless thing, worse than an ordinary plaything."

LOCAL MERCHANTS SIGN FOR BOOTH SPACE IN FESTIVAL

Letters sent out by the Chamber of Commerce to merchants who have not yet signed up for booth space in the big Fall Festival, to be held here the latter part of August and the first of September, have been fraught with results.

Many local merchants have sent in their requests for space, according to Secretary F. J. Slackford. Indications are now that the Festival will be much bigger and better than those engineered entirely by local business men several years ago.

One of the most interesting features of Festival week will be the automobile parade, according to the plans for such a novelty, which are being carried out by the Festival Production Company of Chillicothe, which company is staging the local Festival. Prizes will be offered for the best decorated automobiles and floats, and competent judges will be selected from among Xenia business men to decide on the awards.

ROGER W. BABSON TO GIVE ADDRESS AT KIWANIS MEET

Statistician Will Discuss the "Business outlook."

Cleveland, June 21.—Roger W. Babson, widely known statistician of Boston will deliver the principal address of the day at the Fifth international convention of Kiwanis Clubs now in session here this afternoon when he will discuss the "business outlook."

Harry F. Atwood, of Chicago will also speak this afternoon on "the constitution—our safeguard."

The morning session of this the first business day, was taken up with addresses of welcome to the delegates by Mayor William S. Fitzgerald and Governor Harry L. Davis.

Among the resolutions recommended for adoption today are propositions providing for a real budget system for the United States and the adoption of improved business methods by the federal government.

FIRE SWEEPS OVER BUSINESS BLOCK IN MARYLAND CITY, RAZING BUILDINGS

Baltimore, Md., June 21.— Fire which started early today in the town of Hampstead, Md., about 25 miles from this city, was not under control until seven business houses and three dwelling houses had been destroyed. Five amilies were rendered homeless and two men were slightly injured. The fire started in the garage of Samuel E. Keller, on Main street. A large number of automobiles were in the building and the oils added fuel to the flames which quickly spread to adjoining property. At one time, it appeared that the entire town which has a population of 1,500 was doomed, and aid was asked and rushed from nearby towns. Request for assistance also was sent to Baltimore. No estimate of the loss could be made at an early hour.

QUESTION RIGHT TO HOLD PROBE OF OHIO PRISON

Warden Maintains Committee Has Been Dissolved.

Columbus, O., June 21.—Attorney General Price has been asked to rule whether the special legislative committe has a legal right to conduct an investigation at this time of conditions prevailing at the penitentiary.

The request for a rulng was made by State Senator A. E. Culbert, Fremont, Republican, chairman of the committee, after Attorneys Randolph W. Walton and W. S. Pealer, Columbus, representing Warden Thomas, declared that the action of Gov. Davis in adjourning the state legislature dissolved the committee headed by Senator Culbert. Walton is a former member of the state civil service commission. Pealer was executive clerk to former Gov. Cox.

The committee selected Prosecutor F. H. Allyn, Ottawa county, for counsel and appointed State Senator James A. Reynolds, Cleveland, secretary, Senator Reynolds in the Democratic member of the committee.

BULLETINS

NEW EVIDENCE OBTAINED

New York, June 21.—An intimate, colorful "eye witness" account of life aboard James A. Stillman's yacht, when Mrs. Florence Lawler Leeds, reigned as its undisputed queen has been obtained—in deposition form—by attorneys of Mrs. Stillman, for use in her affirmative defense to the divorce suit charges, it became known today. The information is so highly valued that it will probably be made the very groundwork for the defendant's counter charges.

NEW RECORD.

St. Andrews, Scotland, June 21.—Jock Hutchinson's stock as a possible winner of the British open golf championship took a decided rise today when he turned in a 69 for the Eden course, establishing a new record and making a total score of 146 for the two days play, which insures him a place in the championship round starting tomorrow.

TWO POLICEMEN TO GIVE TESTIMONY

Cleveland, June 21.— Charles Alen, former reporter on the Cleveland News, and two policemen, will be the last witnesses called by the state in the prosecution of William H. McGannon, former chief justice of the municipal court, charged with perjury before resting its case today.

The defense expects to offer about 15 witnesses, according to a statement by Attorney W H. Boyd, McGannon's counsel. Among those to be called are a number who testified to McGannon's alibi at his two trials for the murder of Harold C. Kagy.

AMERICAN NAVAL POLICY MAY HINGE ON BOMBING TESTS STARTING TODAY

First Of Series Of Bombing Experiments To Prove Value Of Aerial Forces In Naval Warfare Under Way As Air Armada Sweeps Out to Sea.

Aboard the U. S. S. Henderson, off the Virginia Capes, June 21.—It took a small division of naval seaplanes something less than 16 minutes today to send the ex-German submarine U-177 to join the many good vessels, which, it as a raider, has sent to Davy Jones' locker during the war.

On Board U. S. S. Henderson, off the Virginia Capes, June 21.—American naval policy is in the making today, as a great air armada sweeps out to sea from the Virginia Capes.

The first of a series of bombing tests to prove the value of aerial forces in naval warfare started today. If the air forces demonstrate their effectiveness in sea fighting and their ability to put out of commission the modern naval fighting ships, then the naval policy of the United States must undergo a change and the great grey dreadnaughts must fall into the back stream while the nation develops its air forces for protection on land and sea.

Out of the grey fog-banks flying in wide open formation, came the first squadron of the air fighters, swift, single-seated scout planes with a speed of 120 miles an hour —the eyes of the air fleet.

Somewhere here in the home waters is the "enemy"—the former German submarine U-117, one of the most powerful of the former German submarines, with its long record of "Tirpitz sea victories." The U-117 is believed to be the same bold craft that raided the New England coast, sinking fishing smacks early in 1918. Today, she is defenseless, unmanned and unguarded, shorn of her terror-striking power, awash in America waters a target for the airmen in mimic warfare.

The scouts of the air will find the "enemy." It is inevitable. And loafing along in the clouds near the shore line, are the aerial death-dealers, great lumbering bombing planes, flying in battle formation with their racks laden with high powered 163 pound bombs. The bombers are but waiting for the scouts to spot the "enemy" and flash its location.

Foremost in the attacking force are nine great F-5-L type machines each with a complement of four bombs. To the rear there is a division of torpedo planes, Martin bombers, with six bombs each. Following these at intervals of 20 minutes will come the droning, moaning, triple-motored NC type of seaplanes and a marine corps division of DH planes.

At Langley field, nervous tuning up under the direction of Brigadier General "Billie" Mitchell, are the Army fliers, praying that in this first test they may get a shot at the target. The navy fliers have the first opportunity today.

Along the horizon, there are bobbing little destroyers, ever ready to give aid to any airplane in distress, bu watching with a jealous eye as the strength of the set forces is attached from the air.

On board the Henderson, assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt, members of the naval affairs appropriations committee of congress and others are watching anxiously. They are lined with naval officers, grim-visaged old sea-dogs, and blithe young junior officers, all tense with interest.

Official results of the bombing may be not known fo r weeks, or the records o the observers will be subjected to highly technical scrutiny and against today's "scores" must be weighed the fact that there are no defenses. The "archies' are silent, the U-boat submerging valvs are closed and the propellers turn back and forth with only the power of the waves to drive them.

Rear Admiral Henry B. Wilson, in command of the Atlantic fleet, is in charge of today's tests, but immediate control is rested in Captain A. W. Johnson, commanding the Atlantic fleet air forces.

Brig. General Mitchell, who stirred up this whole fuss as to the value of the airplane pitted against naval fighting craft is in command of the army airplaines, somewhere in the air or back at the Land station, giving instructions to anxious pilots and perspiring mechanics.

On June 28, the most spectacular bombing test will be made when the old battleship Iowa, controlled by radio, will attempt to elude a fleet of air bombers.

STOCKS ON NEW YORK EXCHANGE REACH LOWEST LEVEL SINCE 1917

Deep Mystery Hangs Over Wall Street as to What Source Is Responsible for Tremendous Selling Orders —Shrinkage Amounts to Millions of Dollars

New York, June 21.—A deep mystery hangs over Wall street today. It is this: From what source comes the tremendous flood of selling orders that have forced the price of stocks on the New York stock exchange down to the lowest level since the peace break in -1917. The shrinkage in stock values has mounted into millions of dollars and the vast fortunes of millionaires which consisted mainly of railroad and industrial stocks have dwindled enormously.

All classes of securities are being hammered relentlessly from the standard issues with fine dividend records to the impoverished rails.

Canadian Pacific which sold as high as $283 a share in 1913, sold down to $101 a share, the lowest price it has touched in 20 years. The action of this stock has traders puzzled as it pays a 10 per cent dividend.

U. S. Steel common sold down to $71, the lowest price since 1915, when it sold at $38 a share.

Mexican Petroleum was another stock that suffered greatly, selling down to $103 a share against $264 a share in 1919. The spectacular break of 50 points in this issue has made it an object of particular scrutiny by the officials of the stock exchange who are keeping a vigilant eye open for signs of organized raiding.

Southern Pacific, a standard railway security paying 6 per cent dividend, sold down to $68.25 a share, against $101 a share early this year, just before the segregation of the California oil properties.

Northern Pacific, a rich and powerful member of the Hill group, which pays seven percent dividend, dropped to $64 a share, In 1916, it sold as high as $119 a share. It is a bear market with a vengeance, but while the spectators are making profits by "selling short" the odd lot brokerage houses (firms that handle small transactions) report that the public is coming into the market for an increasing volume of stocks. These issues are bought outright for investment. The orders range from five to 100 shares and come from bargain hunters.

There is a heavy turnoverq of stocks daily. The total shares dealt in yesterday was 1,169,900 divided as follows:

Railroad stocks 271,300; other stocks 898.600.

The average price of twenty railroad stocks was 57.40 against 61.15 a year ago. The average price of 30 representative industrial stocks was 63.53 against 91.87 a year ago.

BRANDS CLAUSE ON REPARATIONS AS WORLD DISASTER

British Labor Leader Scores existing Conditions in Europe.

Brighton, England, June 21.—The reparations clauses of the treaty of Versailles were branded as "disastrous to workers in every country in the world," by President Cameron of the trade union congress, in opening the British labor conference here today.

President Cameron charged that much unemployment was due to the conclusion of a military pease and a conspirary to wage an economic war against the central powers.

"It is impossible to impoverish one nation without spreading the plague to every other nation," said President Cameron.

"That is exactly what has happened. We are now faced with the most serious economic crisis in history.

"There must be public ownership of the land, the mines, the railways the shipping and all factories and workshops. But such ownership can only be acquired when we have captured political control of the nation."

STORM DAMAGED $250,000

Athens, Ohio, June 21—Half a score of homes, eight bridges and crops wese swept away when a cloudburst struck Bern Township, Athens County. County roads and more than a mile of railroad tracks were washed out. Damage is estimated at a quarter of a million dollars.

RUTH'S TWENTY FOURTH HOMER WINS FOR YANKS

"Babe" Ruth of the New York Yankees yesterday made his twenty-fourth homer of the American League season. The circuit smash was made on the first ball pitched by Myers in the tenth inning and permitted the Yankees to defeat Boston 7 to 6.

WOMANLY AILMENTS AFFECT BEAUTY

Tuesday Health Talk No. 42.
G. C. DONOHOO, D. C.

Ailments peculiar to women affect their attractiveness. The fact is admitted. It is common to the experience of every one. No woman willingly suffers a decline of her womanly qualities.

Many of these sufferers have been sent to the operating table as a last resort. But with the advent of the science of chiropractic, a great change was brought about. Interference with the transmission of nerve impulses at the spine it has been found, lowers the natural vigor of these organs. Chiropractic spinal adjustments, freeing nerve lines, give Nature a chance to act with vigor and health returns. Few such operations are necessary now.

HOPES OTHERS MAY NOT WAIT TOO LONG

"I was sore and swollen all the time after having fifteen small tumors and two vital organs removed. For five months after the operation I could not walk. As a last resort my husband urged chiropractic. In less than three weeks I could walk and sleep. I wish every suffering woman would consult a chiropractor first. I shall always regret I did not know of it before I surrendered myself to the surgeons."—Mrs. D. C. Gafford, Chiropractic Research Bureau, Statement No. 1267L.

UNCLE BEN SAYS:—Reciprocity is a feller who done somethin' for sumbody what done sumthin' for him. That's the reason why I boost my Chiropractor.

PAINS IN SIDE AND BACK

Caused by Woman's Ills and Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Grafton, Pa.—"I was troubled with inflammation and pains in my sides and back. After doctoring with different doctors and not getting relief, I had almost given up hopes when my sister told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and knowing that she had really been helped by it, I purchased it. I was unable to do my work at that time, but after taking several bottles of the Vegetable Compound I can now do anything about the house or farm that a woman should do. I have a four months old baby that is the healthiest and biggest baby for his age that I have ever seen. I am willing for my letter to be used for a testimonial to tell other suffering women how much your medicine has done for me, as I give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound all the praise."—Mrs. BLAIR L. FISHER, R. D. 1, Box 37, Grafton, Pa.

Working early and late—lifting, carrying, and the heaviest of household duties—is it any wonder that it results in backaches and kindred ills. But every woman who suffers as Mrs. Fisher did should profit by her experience and give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

Arrangements are being completed whereby candidates may be examined by officers of the Medical Reserve Corps. Examinations are also given at any military camp, post or station.

OSBORN FAVORED IN DECISION OF THE SUPREME COURT

Columbus, June 21. A motion for an order directing the Greene county appellate court to certify its record was overruled today by the state supreme court in the case of the village of Fairfield et al versus the village of Osborn et al.

The decision of the Supreme court rests the case on the decision of the Greene County Commissioners, which decision was upheld by the Common Pleas Court here and by the Apellate court. By the decision Osborn was favored in its fight to acquire certain territory for the purpose of moving the village from the Miami Conservancy district, to a new site. Fairfield opposed the move by attempting to acquire the same territory that was being sought by Osborn.

GREEKS TO GIVE MEN A CHANCE

Wasington, June 21.—The Greek government has promised the American legation at Athens, that hereafter, men picked up for evasion of military service will be given a chance to prove their nationality before being impressed into the service, according to official advices reaching Washington today.

The action of the Greek government was taken in response to protests from the American government that many naturalized citizens were being catipulted into military service. The Greek government promised that men being picked up would be taken before the nearest consul of their adopted government instead of the prefecture of police.

If the American consul vouches for them they will be released.

THE FOOD VALUE OF A POTATO

Those who bring sunshine int o the lives of others should not keep it from themselves.—Barrie.

"What is the food value of the potato?"

As purchased, the potato contains only 20 per cent of nutritive value.

A mealy well-cooked potato is in the proper physical condition to be readily acted upon by the digestive fluids. Cooking improves the taste of the potato, as from the continued use of cooked starch we have learned to prefer it to raw starch. While only 8.2 per cent of the protein is lost when the potatoes are plunged directly into the boiling water , if they are soaked for several hours before cooking abot 25 per cent is wasted, and if plunged into cold water which is then brought to a boil, 15.8 per cent of the protein is lost.

Such tests were made with peeled potatoes but when boiled with their jackets on the loss is only 1 per cent of the protein, and a little over 3 per cent of ash, by either process of cooking. Nutritive material is therefore saved if potatoes are boiled in their jackets. Some suggest to remove a section of the skin to allow the moisture to escape. As soon as the potato is cooked it should be taken from the water to prevent it from becoming "water soaked" or boiled to pieces.

In baking potatoes, very little nutriment is lost. The starch is thoroughly cooked as the temperature attained baking is several degrees above the boiling point. Unless they are to be eaten immediately, it is inadvisable to break open as soon as done to allow the steam to escape so that the tuber may not becoming 'soggy' on standing, then keep in a warm place covered with a clean towel or napkin to absorb the steam. If put in a covered porcelain dish, the steam is condensed and falls back on the potato.

Potato Chips, cut in thin slices, absorb as much as 39.8 per cent fat and the heat to which they have been exposed (which is above the temperature of boiling water) has driven off all except 2 per cent of the moisture. Fried potatoes are more thoroughly cooked if boiled before frying.

Besides mealy potatoes, which are prepared from well-developed tubes not too long stored, "waxy" potatoes are much in favor, especially for salad and fancy dishes, since they hold their shape better.

Styles

BY LENORE

What did the bridesmaids wear? That's what they always want to know, for next in importance to the wedding gown, and perhaps the groom, come the frocks of the bride's attendants as a center of interest. At one fashionable wedding in a Fifth Avenue church the bride's only attendant was clad in a frock of gossamer tulle over an overslip of silver cloth, the bodice shirred in at the neck on silver beading and cut crystal. the sparkling crystal repeated in the girdle which bound the waist just above the hips.

The chic frock in the sketch is a model suggested by a clever New York modiste, and was designed for a bride who wished to surround her wedding with an atmophere of old-time quaintness. Hence the bouffant hips and 1830 neckline, becoming to all types of youth. Mauve taffeta with silver grapes and gray tulle hats may be chosen, or the frocks may be pinkish yellow, with hats of brown tulle and lace. The point edging at the necklace is of self-material.

Pattern No. 187

A pattern for the above model (No. 187) can be obtained in sizes 34, 36, 38 or 50, by sending to Lenore, 8 West 40th Street, New York City, your name,address, the number of this pattern and the size required and 30 cents in postage stamps. Be sure to keep this newspaper clipping of the sketch and description of the garment to use as a working model when the pattern reaches you—which will be within two weeks' time.—The Editor.

The main squad that arrived later furnished grub for the two.

LAST RITES PAID TUESDAY MORNING

Simple and impressive services for Mrs. F. C. Hubble were held at the home in Alpha, Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. The services were in charge of Rev. Albert Read of this city, assisted by Rev. J. F. Tappy of Indiana, former pastor of the Beaver Reformed church, and J. Stanley Richards, of Dayton, assistant pastor of that church, and a student of the Dayton Theological Seminary.

The services were attended by a host of friends of Mrs. Hubble, and many floral tributes bore testimony of the high esteem in which Mrs. Hubble was held. Eleven members of the Junior Woman's Club of this city. and several members of the Greene County Library Board, of which Mrs. Hubble was a member, attended the services.

A quartette of the Beaver Reformed church sang several numbers at the services.

Pallbearers were D. W. Cherry of this city, C. A. Jacobs, Andrew R. Thompson, of Alpha, Steele Poague of this city, Chester Williamson, as business associate of Mr. Hubble, of Dayton, and Frank Smith of this city. Interment was made at Woodland cemetery this city.

Cillicothe, June 21.—Asa Cordrey 75 years of age well known in Fayette, Ross and Highland counties, and who it is said, has two penitentiary terms to his credit has been held to the grand jury in Ross county on a charge of stealing a horse and buggy from Elmer Carder, in Ross Sounty.

Cordrey, it is alleged, stole the horse last Monday and was arrested in Highland county on Wednesday and returned to Chillicothe. He claimed he had purchased the horse.

RUSSIAN WAIFS LIVE UNDER GUARDIAN'S MILITARY RULE

Seven little Russian kiddies brought here by Admiral McCully.

These seven Russian waifs, brought to the United States last winter from Sebastopol by Rear Admiral Newton McCully, U. S. N., have their own "rules of living." These rules are much like a gob's, perhaps because they were drawn up by their naval guardian in a sixteen-page booklet. Under these regulations the children will rise at 7 a. m. and go to bed at 8 p. m. (ask any tired father how long they'll lie awake hollering for water, stories, etc.), and every minute of the period between is carefully provided for, with special routines for Sundays and holidays. The children have just left Washington, D. C., "under orders" for Anderson, S. C., where they will spend the summer with Admiral McCully's mother.

OLD LANDMARK TO GIVE WAY TO NEW PRINTING HOUSE

Findley M. Torrence, editor of Wood Construction, a lumber trade paper, owned by the Ohio Association of Retail Lumber Dealers of which Mr. Torrence is Secretary-Manager, will open a new printing house, to be known as the Buckeye Press, in the Norckauer building, 24 West Main street, within a short time.

The new company will do a general printing business, and new equipment is now being installed in the room. H. E. Kiernan, who has been operating his own job printing business for the last ten or twelve years, will be associated with Mr. Torrence in the new enterprise, and has closed out his business on East Main street.

The Norckauer building, occupied for years by the John F. Norckauer grocery, is being remodeled for the occupancy of the new printing concern. Mr. Norckauer has closed out his stock of groceries and is retiring from active business, the removal of his grocery, marking the passing of a landmark, of a quarter of a century.

Mr. Torrence is preparing to remove his offices from East Main street to the new location, where they will be on the first floor.

TUESDAY ELKS' DAY AT LOCAL RACES

Tuesday, the opening day of the race meeting of the Xenia Trotting Association, at the Fairgrounds, is Elk's Day.

On that day, Elks will not be admitted free. but Elk's were given tickets to sell. and their lodge will benefit by a commission given by the Trotting Association.

The same is true of Wednesday, which is known as American Legion Day, when Foody Post, will be given a commission of the gate receipts on tickets sold in the Legion.

GOLF AND HOW TO PLAY IT

By Chas. "Chick" Evans Jr.

Indian File.

I have never forgotten the remark of a fine old professor who did his best to make something of me in my academy days. He said that all actual learning must be done in solitude—the way of the student was Indian file. That was a graphic way of stating a golfing truth as well as an educational one. To my early recognition of the fact that this truth applies also to the world of sport I owe much of my success at golf. In saying this I do not mean to write anything against that delightful feature of the game—companionship on the links—for nothing can take the place of that, but I do mean that for the ambitious golfer who wants to learn how to control his shots a certain amount of solitary practice is absolutely necessary.

One may play well at times in matches but the sort of skill that results in a reasonable certainty of being able to produce a given shot at a given time must be the product of a practice that is something akin to the practice of scales by a musician. Muscles must be so trained by intellient repetition that the power to make the correct shot becomes largely automatic.

When a man plays in a match the fighting, rather than the artistic spirit is uppermost and he is tempted to do many an unorthodox thing in order to gain a temporary advantage. If this becomes habitual the wrong consists in having no settled method, being really master of no shot. The impulsive player who trusts to the inspiration of the moment may rise to great heights, but alas! he falls too, to great depths.

The real object of training is to acquire a settled form, for the good player is one that averages high; the veriest dub may be able at times, playing subjectively, to make a fine round. Therefore, I particularly advise the player who hopes to improve to make a great effort to find a few regular hours of solitary practice during the week.

It is my theory that the problem before each golfer is how to adopt his individuality to the game. In working this out he will necessarily make many mistakes, and it is best to meet and conquer them alone.

The onlooker is likely to judge one too leniently, or too severely. The hard conscientious worker needs a tempered judgment. It must not be severe enough to discourage, nor lenient enough to overlok serious faults. It is easy to crush a beginner by criticisms, it is equally easy to smother out any good game by undue flattery.

For these many reasons I advise after acquiring the fundamentals from a professional to spend a little systematic time in solitary practice, striving to look at one's game impersonally and keep one's judgment clear and level headed.

CHANGES LOCATION OF GROCERY STORE

Charles McNutt, who for the past year has conducted a grocery store and meat market on Charles street, has moved his place of business to a new location on North Detroit street,, occupying the building formerly used as a traction freight depot.

Mr. McNutt came to this city about one year ago from Toledo, and entered the grocery business on Charles street. The building chosen for his new location has been remodeled, and the store is thought to prove popular in that section of the city.

"THAT FOUL THING, THE HUMAN HEART."

Nathaniel Hawthorne's story entitled "Earth's Holocaust," s the story of men and women who became weary of their foibles and follies and sought to be rid of their fripperies and foolishness. They determined to make an end of them by burning. A great mountain of useless and silly possessions was lighted and the flame and smoke of them rose to the sky. There were in the company a number of reprobates who were sad of countenance now that their business was gone. Satan came up to comfort them: "Be not cast down, my peers," he said, "there is one thing these wiseacres have forgotten." "What is that?" they all shouted. "They have forgotten the human heart. Unless they hit upon some trick of purifying that foul thing, it will soon be the same old world again."

Our world is greatly disturbed. Warring elements and commotions are on every hand. It would be hard to find a spot where there is perfect peace and quietness. Countries and nations are agitated. Oppression and offensive warfare are agitating many lands. Internal contentions are arousing the people of many communities. Crimes abound. Laws are broken. Feuds and lynchings, with wanton destruction of public and private property, are reported from many quarters. The world seems to be moaning and groaning as one does who lies on his bed sick in the delirium of a fever. What can be done to bring about the return of peaceful and happy conditions?

The supreme business is to change the heart of the world. External remedies will never accomplish the task. We must not think that we have the supreme task completed when we change environments and social status. Change the heart and you change the individual. Only changed hearts can create a changed world. "As a man thinks in his heart, so is he." The Church has been doing some very fine things here and there. Some fine day it will step forth in the limelight of God's approval and present to him the healed heart of a hitherto very sick world.

THE FIRST DOLLAR.

John D. Rockefeller recently described to a group of admiring grandchildren how, seventy-three years ago, he earned his first dollar by raising and selling turkeys; and he signalized the occasion by distributing bright new buffalo nickels, which may prove the nest-eggs of fortunes like his own.

Somebody might write an interesting book by assembling accounts of the way in which men who now have big names in the industrial world made their first dollar. If a boy in this current year of grace thinks he hasn't a chance such as that which Rockefeller or Carnegie or Edison or Schwab had years ago, let him ask himself what the boys of 2000 years hence are going to do. The development of this world of ours is just beginning. Our country itself is still in its infancy. There are abounding lucrative opportunities on every hand today, such as no past era in the world's history has known.

The way the first dollar is earned may determine the trend of a lifetime. If it is earned dishonorably, it may fix a taste that in the long run assures disaster. Every dollar earned and put to work or put by makes it easier to add to the number. Those who, even from a slender pittance, are able to save a little have acquired a habit that lays the surest foundation stone of wealth.

IT'S "UP TO YOU," AND DON'T YOU FORGET IT.

William James held that we can always do more than we think we are able to do.

The late "Tom" Shevlin, Yale football player and coach, waxed eloquent on that subject to his pupils. "If you think you can, you can. If you think you can't, the football field is no place for you."

It was a favorite theory of Mr. Shevlin that we are or we aren't, we do or we don't, and that's all there is to it.

Oceans of talk cannot cover up a failure. All that an employer wants to know is whether the goods were delivered or not. Excuses do not matter.

Everywhere are people who are only half alive—only half doing their work—barely passing muster—scraping through like a schoolboy in an examination, with a mark just high enough to qualify.

Forever we have to fight our own inertia. When we speak of being the victims of circumstances, we misuse the word circumstances. It is not the things "standing around" us, as the word signifies, but the things indwelling—the bad habits whose hold is so tenacious—that hold us back and pull us down, and keep us from realizing the fullness of the promise of our youth.

We talk of "seeing life," and when we say that what do we mean? We mean a loafer's definition of pleasure; we mean luxurious trifling, frivolity and inanition.

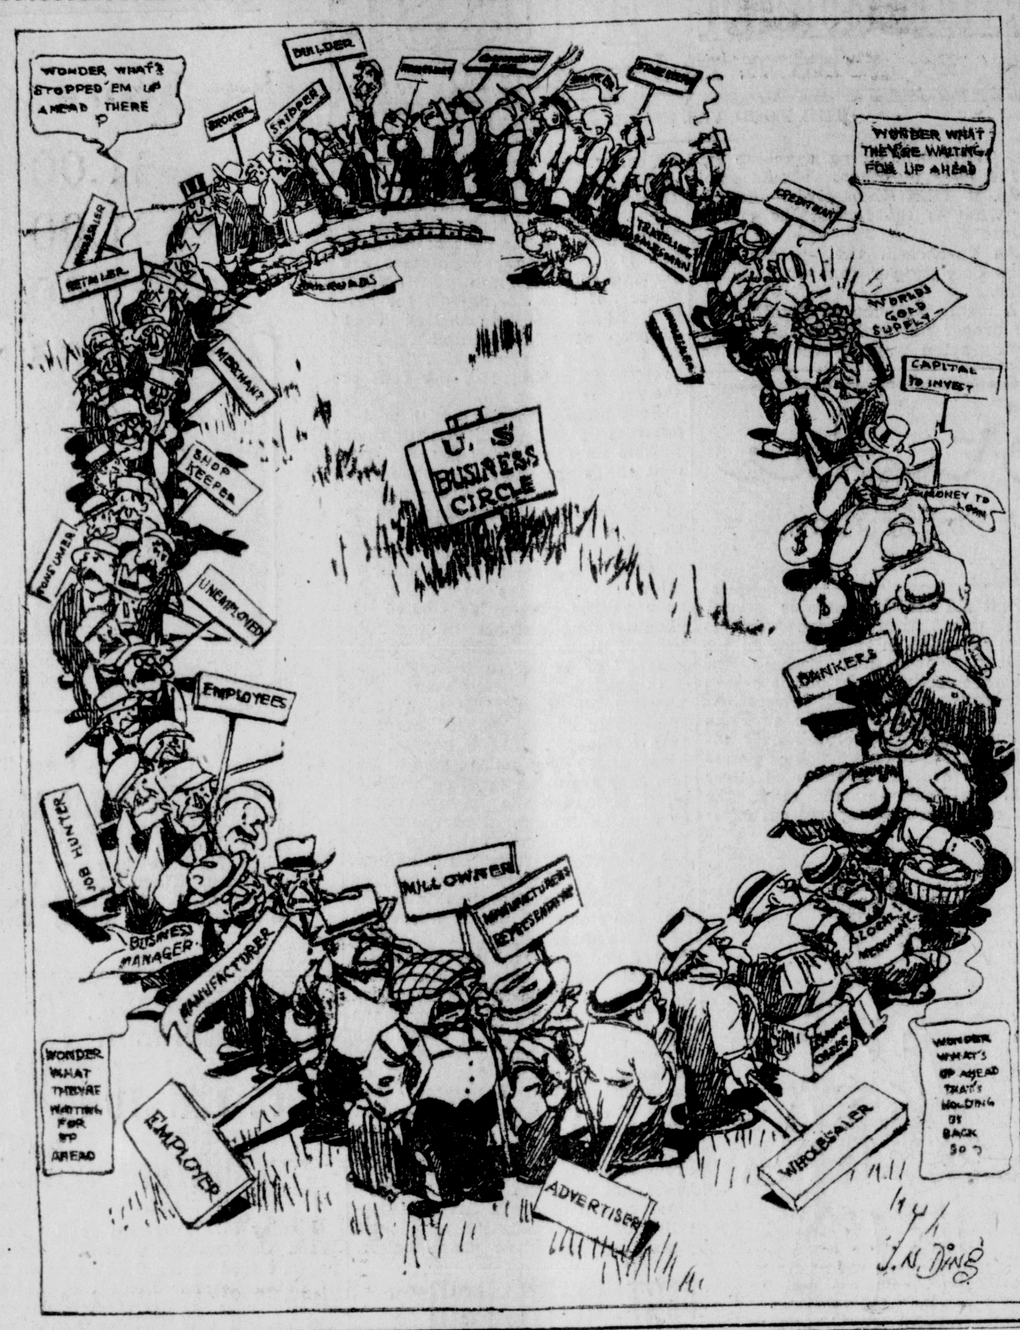

"Seeing life" might mean visiting a steel mill, or watching the building of ships or hats or locomotives; but instead we use the word to indicate some sort of "slumming" expedition, in high life or low.

"You're missing the best of your life," some tempter urges, pointing the way toward gilded, rose-hung and dazzling iniquity.

But that isn't life. Burning the candle at both ends in riotous excesses is the destruction of life. Those who are half living are those who are fooling away the years with nothing to show for it but the memory of smooth and shining floors, dance, cards and chandeliers and indigestible "refreshments."

The half-living are those who bring a fagged and listless body to the day's work.

WAITING FRR "SOMEBODY UP AHEAD" TO START UP SO THE PROCESSION CAN MOVE.

1901--Twenty Years Ago--1921

Mr. L. F. Clevenger, who has been enjoying a visit with his family here, for several days, will return to Buffalo, tomorrow, where he is connected with the Pan American Candy Company.

The directors of the People's Building and Savings Company held a caucus yesterday evening to determine the feeling of the members with reference to the secretary of the company. Mr. Thomas J. Kennedy, who for a number of years has been one of the office force at the Pan Handle freight depot was the choice of the majority of the directors.

Mr. Thomas Owens, the contractor, is feeling happy over a fine contract which was awarded him in Dayton. He will build a three story porch on the front of the main building of the Dayton State Hospital.

About thirty Xenians took their departure, yesterday, for Columbus to attend the state convention. A special train came through yesterday on the Pan-Handle, carrying the Hamilton county delegation.

The School Board held a meeting last night and the members inspected the plans for the West Market street building. No conclusion was reached as to the selection of the plans, and another meeting will be held tonight.

executors to pay annuities of $100,000 in accordance with another provision of the will.

The action of the court was petitioned for by Mary Orr Barber, widow; Anna L. Bevan, daughter, of Chicago; Charles T. Thwing, Cleveland Warren Becknell and Andrew Squire, executors.

RAILS TO REQUEST LOWERED WAGES

Washington, June 30.— Three good sized American freight steamers which recently disappeared in a puzzling fashion, while off the mid-Atlantic coast, now are believed to have been taken over by their crews and run into soviet Russian ports, according to information reaching Secretary of Commerce Hoover today.

Two of the steamers are understood to have been laden with wheat and one with sulphur. Details are yet lacking.

The disappearance of the steamers occurred about the same time the derelict Carol A. Deering was found floating off the North Carolina coast without a man aboard. The ship was was in good condition and its case has been a puzzle to the authorities.

HORSES DECREASE AT RAPID RATE 1920 CENSUS SHOWS

Washington, D. C. June 21.— A marked reduction during the last decade in the number of draft animals employed in the largest cities was shown in the 1920 census. Figures made public by the census bureau showed 56,539 horses in New York City as compared with 128,224 in 1910, and 30,399 in Chicago against 68,122.

Figures for other cities announced included: Philadelphia, 19482 and 50,461; Baltimore 7378 and 15,346; Boston 10,093 and 23,007; Pittsburgh 6032 and 12,845; Cincinnati 5031 and 13,901; Cleveland 4924 and 16,829.

WELL PAID.

The day's at hand when Carp and Jack will battle in their pride; and oh, the large and gorgeous stack of money they'll divide, when each has slugged the other's dome for six or seven rounds—and Milton sold his greatest pome for something like ten pounds. I'm glad that in these later days true genius gets its due, and Great Men do not go their ways in rags of dingy hue. Poor Bobbie Burns was always broke, which made his soul repine, and Edgar Poe was forced to soak his hat when he would dine. The list is long of gifted men who always lacked the price, who did tall things with harp or pen, and still were handed ice. E'en Homer begged from town to town, and stole the housedog's bone; though later, in his high renown, each claimed him for its own. Old Grubb street echoed to the wails of many a gifted gink, and Boswell's book is full of tales of genius on the blink. But now our great men get their due when they have made a hit, and when the coming scrap is through a fortune will be split. It was hard luck that Burns and Poe and Homer and that crew were born so many years ago, ere greatness got its due.

CHAUFFEUR CHARGES TRIO WITH ASSAULT; ARRESTS FOLLOW

Charles Harris, Joseph Akins and Joseph Vallero, colored, are locked up in the county jail pending a hearing on a charge of assault and battery, preferred against them by Joseph Moore, colored chauffeur for J. R. Hill, of Springfield.

Moore claims that he was returning with the Hill family from Latonia where they had attended the races, when their car broke down at Middletown, and he was left with the car while the Hill family returned to Springfield on the train. After the car was repaired, Moore claimed he started to drive to Springfield but was accosted at Wilberforce by the three men charged in the affidavit who charged him with stealing an automobile belonging to Vallero, and handled him roughly. Sheriff Funderburg arrested the trio, who are on $100 bond for their appearance, Tuesday or Wednesday before Magistrate Jones.

WILL HOLD JOINT MEMORIAL SERVICES

Joint memorial services will be conducted by the Zanetta Council, No. 120 of the Daughters of America, and the Wahoo Tribe, No. 41, of the Improved Order of Red Men at the Red Men's Hall on Sunday afternoon at two o'clock. The services will be held in memory of the deceased members of the two lodges. Following the services the members of the lodges will go to Woodland cemetery, where the graves of the deceased members will be decorated.

GAMBLING CHARGED; TWO GET SENTENCE

Charles Miller and Earl Jackson, arrested by Sheriff Funderburg at Kilkare Park Sunday and charged with gambling on a specific charge of crap shooting, were fined $10 and costs and sentenced to 15 days in the Dayton workhouse by Magistrate J. E. Jones, Monday.

Homer Toner, arrested with Miller and Jackson at the Park on a charge of having liquor in his posession was fined $100 and costs for violation of the Crabbe Act.

ARRESTED FOLLOWING COMPLAINT MONDAY

Following complaints received from the Fairgrounds, Monday, Sheriff Funderburg arrested six men on the Dayton pike, and charged them with drunk and disorderly.

The men were Thomas Jackson, Elijah Bird, Clarence Sevall and C. Ewing, all colored and Robert Nelson and Roy Wallace, white. It is charged that the men had been drinking at the Fairgrounds but got away before the arrival of the officers, who later caught them on the Dayton pike, near the County Infirmary, when their machine broke down. They were each fined $5 and costs.

ANSWERED LETTERS.

Burlap B.—A puffy condition under the eyes usually comes from a disturbance of some function, either of the kidneys or liver. You should consult your doctor about it.

Terry.—There is a mistake in your prescription, as oils could not be used as a means of curling the hair.

M. D.—Bathe the armpits several times each day with cold water in which several drops of benzoin are used to each pint of water—this will cause the water to turn to a milky liquid, which decides the amount of benzoin. It will neutralize the odor from perspiration and harded the skin so it will improve the condition you complain of.

F. M. S.—In spite of the fact that your appetite is good, your body is not receiving enough nourishment seventy eight pounds is too far below normal weight, for you to be indifferent to the cause.

S. P. H.—Keep the child's hair bobbed or shingled and give it all the sun and air that you can. This with a clean scalp, is all the treatment that will be needed.

Babriella.—The information was about bicarbonate of soda, or the ordinary baking soda, to be used for keeping the hair light.

Mrs. S.—The little tear duct that runs from the corners of the eye into the nose, is probably inflamed from so much crying. Use hot or very cold compresses over the eyes morning and evening, which will relieve it, provided you do not continue the habit.

Anxious Marie.—The electric needle will destroy the hair follicle and no other hair will grow at that place, but that does not signify that you will not grow hair from some other place. If you have the tendency you will grow hair again, but you can lessen it by keeping the pores free from any accumulation of grime and oil secretion.

Elsie.—A chiropodist wil explain to you about that condition. If you send an addressed stamped envelope, I shall be pleased to send you a formula for a tonic good for hair that is turning grey prematurely.

R. F. S.—To Strengthen the muscles of a stomach that have grown flabby, lie flat on the back, arms extended by the sides; bend the knees and slowly raise both legs ts far as they will go Press the thighs firmly against the abdomen and hold the position for a few seconds; then extend and lower the legs to first position. Follow this by standing erect, then lift your right knee and clasp it with your hands, pull ing it up as high as you can, against the abdomen. Hold for a few seconds and release it. Repeat the exercise. using the other leg.

CARPENTIER KNOWS GAME OF BOXING DECLARES CORBETT

BY JAMES J. CORBETT.

Nanhasett L. I., June 21.—I talked with Georges Carpentier about boxing, pro and con, especially some of the fine point of it. We chatted about boxers and their styles and I found the French champion one who talks of boxing very intelligently.

For a number of things Carpentier said. I am convinced that he knows the game, but as far as his public exhibitions are concerned, I'm inclined to think that he is kidding all of us.

The outstanding thing that Georges has unlashed—and that very sparingly—has been his whiplash right. We all know he possesses a great right hand.

So far Carpentier has shown no defensive to amount to anything, yet I think he surely must have a good defense. He certainly impressed me in my talk with him that he realizes the value of a strong defense. Defense is going to be a most important thing for Carpentier in his fight with Dempsey. First of all because of the rushing style characteristics of the champion.

COURT NEWS

Appellate Court Upholds Decision

In a decision handed down, Monday, the Court of Appeals overruled the motion of the defendant for a rehearing of the case of Annie E. Barrett against Adelaide Skinner.

The plaintiff in her petition asked for an acounting of estate and settlement and the decision in Common Pleas Court ordered the defendant to pay back to the estate a large amount of money. Attorneys for the defendant petitioned the Apellate Court for a rehearing which has been just overruled.

Attorneys in the case are C. L. Darlington, for the plaintiff and Marcus Shoup and W. L. Miller for the defendant.

Asks for Small Judgment

The W. B. Wood Manufacturing Company of St. Louis is plaintiff in a suit filed with Clerk of Courts C. S. Johnson, Monday, against the Fuller Ice Cream and Soda Water Company, asking for a $250 judgment. The petition alleges the amount is due on goods sold the defendant with interest of six per cent from June 1, 1920. The law firm of Miller & Finney represent the plaintiff.

Two Suits For Divorce

Lucile Kenney, is plaintiff in an action for divorce filed with Clerk of Courts C. S. Johnson Monday against Robert Kenney. The petition charges gross neglect and desertion. They were married December 24, 1919 and have one child, Olive May, aged nine months. The plaintiff charges defendant abandoned her, August 23, 1920.

The defendant was arrested by Probation Officer Joe Watts and brought before Judge J. Carl Marshal in Probate Court, Monday, on a warrant charging him with non-support sworn out by Prescutor J. Kenneth Williamson. Judge Marshal ordered him to pay $3.50 a week for support of the child.

Elizabeth Shaw is plaintiff in a divorce action filed Monday against Laayette Shaw. The couple were married October 23, 1917 and have one son, Lafayette, three years old. The plaintiff charges gross neglect for two years and extreme cruelty.

Partition Suit Filed

An interesting siut for partition of estate was filed with Clerk of Courts C. S. Johnson, Monday, by attorneys for Frank M. Corry.

The suit names as defendants, Robert E. Corry, Riley J. Corry, Lee B. Corry, Harry B. Corry, Lydia Alta Jobe, Ida May Currie, Corry Bull, Chas. Bull, Kitty F. Andrews, Carrie Gillis, Lida Crouch Corry, Kate Corry, James Corry, Lena Belle Corry, Herman C. Corry, Ernest E. Corry, Margaret Campbell Corry, Ethel Stewart Corry, Homer C. Corry, Thomas Elder Corry, Mary Belle Garlough, Chester B. Corry, Rachel Josephine Kelly, Jamie Allison, Frederick Allison, Elizabeth Jackson Corry, Aletha Collins, Lida Skinner and Mathew C. Fleming.

The petition states that the plaintiff is a son of William R. Corry, who died intestate October 31, 1885. William R. Corry was a son of Mathew Corry, who died May 5, 1864, possessed of property and who gave this land to one son, Henry J. Carry, a brother of Wm. R. Corry. Henry J. Corry intermarried in 1857 with Lyda Collins and there were no children. Henry J. Corry dying intestate August 28, 1871 and his wife died June 15, 1921.

The petition states the the funeral expenses of Henry J. Corry were paid and the separate estate of Lyda Corry is ample to cover her debts. The plaintiff says that as a nephew and heir-at-law of Henry J. Corry, he has a legal right to 1-48th part of the real estate of Lyda Corry of whom the following are tenants with the plaintiff: R. E. Corry, Riley J. Corry, Lee B. Corry Harry R. Corry, Lyda Alta Jones, and Ida May Currie, sons and daughters of William R. Corry and nephews and nieces of Henry J. Corry, each entitled to 1-48th part. Charles Bull, Corry Bull, Kitty E. Andrews and Carrie Gillis, sons and daughters of Anna Alice Bull and grand children of W. R. Corry, are entitled to 1-92 part; Mary Belle Garlough, Charles B. Corry and Rachel Josephine Kelly, children of James B. Corry, are nices and nephews of Henry J. Corry and entitled to 1-36th part; Homer C. Corry and Thomas Elder Corry, are sons of Robert F. Corry, grandsons of James B. Corry, and are entitled to 1-72 part, subject to the dower interest of Margaret Campbell Corry; James Corry and Lena Belle Corry are children of James A. Corry and grandchildren of James B. Corry and are entitled to 1-72 interest subject to the dower of Kate Corry; Lida Crouch Corry, widow of Mathew H. Corry, son of James B. Corry, is entitled to 1-36 part; James and Frederick Allison, are grandchildren of Anna B. Allison, and gradnieces of Henry J. Corry and are entitled to 1-12 interest; Hannah Collins who died October 1, 1855 was a sister of Henry J. Corry, and has a daughter, Aletha Collins entitled to 1-6th interest; Rachel Fleming, who died September 14, 1896 was the mother of Lida Skinner and Matthew C. Fleming, who are entitled to 1-12th interest according to the petition; Riley J. Corry and Lee B. Corry, as executors of the estate of Matthew Corry, brother of Henry J. Corry are entitled to 1-6th interest, the petition avers.

The estate consists of 136.38 acres and the plaintiff wants his interest set off to him separately and the interest of the defendants be assigned to them and partition made. Attorneys for the plaintiff are Anderson and McKee of Springfield.

BLAME BLACKHAND

Bellaire June 18—Police believe Chicago blackhanders may have paid $100 for the privilege of murdering Paul Baccabella, 30, local Italian. Baccabella, residing with his brother and working in a local mine, had property in Chicago. He received $100 to defray expenses of a trip to Chicago and for loss of his time in the mine when he was told he had a chance to sell the property. Soon after his arrival in Chicago he was attacked, dying in a few hours. The body was brought here for interment.

GETTING ALONG GOOD

Women are as great sufferers from kidney and bladder ailments as men Foley Kidney Pills help rid the blood stream of impurities that cause rheumatic pains, backache, swollen, aching joints and stiff, painful muscles. Mrs Carey, Box 91, R. F. D. No. 2, Middletown, N. Y., writes: "I had kidney trouble ever since I was a little girl but I am getting along good since I have taken Foley Kidney Pills." They act immediately and help restore the kidneys to healthful activity. Sayre & Hemphill. adv

1st Prize

Here is the answer that won the 1st prize of $10.00 in Kennedy's contest, of "WHY IS KENNEDY THE LEADING OR LARGEST RETAILER OF GROCERIES IN XENIA"

Joe Kennedy has made a phenomenal success of the grocery business in three and one half years.

WHY?

Good common sense, business judgment and honesty has been sensibly applied.

Constant use of clever, catchy newspaper advertising has been made.

Feature advertising hasn't been overlooked.

The highest class goods at the lowest market prices have been offered.

Stocks are always fresh, and always moving.

Shop worn, dusty merchandise never burdens Kennedy's shelves.

His business houses are clean and attractive.

Customers are met courteously, and served quickly and well.

Window displays are never allowed to grow stale.

They are planned to attract the passer and make him a purchaser.

Then—with all that, Kennedy understands people.

That's Why.

DINNER STORIES

It was washing day and John had been kept from school to look after the baby. Mother sent them into the garden to play, but it was not long before cries disturbed her.

"John, what is the matter with baby, now?" she inquired from her wash-tub.

"I don't know what to do with him, mother," replied John. "He's dug a hole and wants to bring it into the house."

A man on the South Side advertised his car for sale. Early the next morning a man who lived across the street came over and said: "Pardon me, but I see by last night's paper you advertised your car for sale."

"Quite true," said the man who advertised the car, "but surely you are not in the market for it."

"No," was the reply, "but I only live across the street and I also want to sell my car. And there would be no need of my spending my money for an advertisement if people were through looking at your car you could just send them across the street to look at my car."

He was unaware of the eccentricities to be found in western Canada. He entered what was apparently the only hotel in the place. After ushering him to a table and giving the stranger the usual glass of water the waiter inquired:

"Dinner is served, sir. Will you have sausages on toast?"

"No, I never eat 'em!"

"In that case, sir," replied the waiter, moving away, "dinner is over."

"Now then, Johnny," said his teacher, "if your father gave you seven cents and your mother gave you six and your uncle gave you four more, what would you have?"

Johnny wrinkled up his forehead and went into the silence for the space of several minutes.

"Come, come," said the teacher impatiently. "Surely you can solve a simple little problem like that."

"It ain't a simple problem at all," replied the boy. "I can't make up my mind whether I'd have an ice cream soda or go to the movies."

A well-known comedian tells us that the colored "extras" are the most careful and considerate people on the lot when it comes to handling their children. A darkey, his wife and pickaninny were working in a comedy. There came a scene where the parents were needed but the baby was "out."

"What'll Ah do with li'l Egbert?" asked the father. "Put him in 'at clothes basket ovah there," said the mother. "Be sure an' don't stand him on his head—he might freet."

At Gilbert Chesterton's debut this prince of paradoxes was outparadoxed by a young lady in the audience who complained to her escort: "Whatever did you mean, he's intellectual? I didn't expect to understand a thing, and I understand every word of it. You've gone and wasted my whole evening!"

PRICE OF GASOLINE LOWEST IN 5 YEARS

The lowest price quoted on gasoline for about five years went into effect Saturday when the station price was cut from 25 to 22 and one half cents, the price being uniform over the state.

The reduction is said to be the direct result of the fact that at present there is no export business, which in accordance with the law of supply and demand, the price is reduced as the result of the amount of 'gas' exceeding the demand.

The refined oils have reacted to the change, along with the gasoline market. The refined oil beginning Saturday morning could be purchased for one cent on the gallon lower. The tank price is now 13 cents per gallon, one V. M. and P. naptha, 20 and one fourth per gallon, as announced by the Standard Oil Company. The Xenia Oil Company announced that the price will be 22 and one half straight, only one quality of gasoline being sold by this company. The High Test "gas" can be purchased at the filling stations but no definite price is set on this quality of the oil.

HAPPY WOMEN

Plenty of Them in Xenia, and Good Reason for It.

Wouldn't any woman be happy
After years of backache suffering
Days of misery, nights of unrest
The distress of urinary troubles,
When she finds freedom.

Many readers will profit by the following:

Mrs. Lee Ledbetter, 167 Hill St., Xenia, says: "As I haven't had a bit of kidney trouble for several years, I believe Doan's Kidney Pills gave me permanent cure. Before I used Doan's I was miserable and run down. Mornings, when I got up, I ached all over, and my back was so lame that the least exertion tired me out. I bought Doan's Kidney Pills at Sayre & Hemphill's Drug Store. I got quick relief and in a short time, was entirely cured."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Ledbetter had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

SHE FINALLY CAME TO NERV-WORTH FOR RESULTS

Like Hundreds of Others Found It Did the Work Where Other Remedies Failed.

Mrs. F. J. Clouser of 321½ Brady St., Dubois, Pa., told a Nerv-Worth representative in an interview the other day how she tried for a long time to get relief from stomach and nervous troubles, but met with no success until she found Nerv-Worth. She said she could not eat anything and keep it on her stomach, and she was so nervous that she could not sleep at nights. Numerous remedies had failed, but after taking Nerv-Worth, she reports that she can eat and sleep much better, and is only too glad to tell what it has done for her. Give Nerv-Worth a trial today, and remember if your first trial bottle is not satisfactory, your druggist is authorized to refund your money. Sold by leading druggists.

INVENTS DEVICE FOR DETECTION OF HIDDEN ICEBERGS

Paris.—A device to guard ships against approaching or distant icebergs is claimed to have been found by M. Larigaldie, of the French Society of Electricians.

Ever since the Titanic disaster, in 1912, this inventor has been working on a scheme whereby icebergs will be visible at many miles distance. Experiments conducted off the coast of Newfoundland aboard a French gunboat are said to have been conclusive, though not absoluately perfect. In working on his invention M. Larigaldie considered the dangers of iceburgs to shipping and the delays and expenses incurred by ships having to take more southerly courses during cold weather. If his invention proves successful the inventor claims that ships will henceforth be able to navigate in more northerly waters, and he hopes thereby to reduce both the danger of cross-Atlantic travel and the time needed to make the crossing.

The apparaus M. Larigaldie employed on his trials consisted of a gilded parabolical mirror, which can freely oscillate around its horizontal diameter. A heavy lead weight reduces its period of oscillation so as to render it insensible to the rolling of the ship. The axle of the apparatus directed toward the bow of the ship directly cuts the horizon. In the center of the mirror a special thermo-electrical coupling is placed, which carefully calorified is protected by sylvine, a highly transparent substance. Despite serious difficulties due in some measures to the narrow surface of the mirror, it was possible to notice a diminution of the current produced by the thermo-electrical coupling when an iceberg crossed the horizon at a distance of six knots. Expecting official aid, M. Larigaldie is fully confident he can improve greatly on his apparatus and that it will be rapidly adopted by all ocean going ships."

DIES AT AGE OF 80 EARLY TUESDAY

Miss Mary V. Kline, 80, died at the home of her niece, Mrs. Vincent Rolinson, of the Springfield pike, near Xenia, at 7:45 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Miss Kline, whose home is in Wilmington, has been failing in health for several years, and became bedfast in the latter part of February, at which time she came to Mrs. Rolison's home to live. Up until that time she had always made her home in Wilmington.

A sister, Mrs. Sarah Parlett, of Wilmington, is the nearest surviving relative. Mrs. Rolison is a niece and there are other nieces and nephews living in Missouri. Miss Kline was a member of the Friends Church in Wilmington. Funeral services will be held in that city but the arrangements have not yet been completed.

LOCAL LODGE OF ELKS STAGES ROUSING INITIATION MONDAY EVENING WHEN NINETEEN NEW ME MBERS ARE TAKEN IN

Local and visiting Elks froclicked Monday night, at the biggest initiatio" exercises held by the local lodge for many months, when nineteen new candidates were admitted into the mysteries of the order, and six former members were reinstated.

Members of Xenia Lodge No. 668 made a gala event of the initiation exercises. Wearing purple caps, carrying canes and wearing a huge badge with ribbons the purple color of Elkdom, the local Elks participated in a big parade at 7:30 o'clock, headed by Exalted Ruler J. B. Bice and the Chamber of Commerce band.

Marching to the Pennsylvania depot the local lodge members met the degree team from the Columbus lodge, considered one of the best in the state and the entire party formed a parade that marched through the business section, and thence to the Elk's home at Second and Whiteman streets, where a banquet was served local members and visiting Elks. It is estimated that there were plates for 250 Elks, including 100 visitors from Columbus, Springfield, Lebanon, Middletown, Dayton, Washington, C. H., Hamilton and Wilmington.

Each candidate for Elkdom in the parade was decorated with a placard which proclaimed him a new candidate and these candidates by means of a long rope, pulled a carriage in which rode the six members who were reinstated in the lodge at the exercises Monday night. The new candidates were: Dean Hunt, Dr. LeRoy Haines, Ernest Beatty, W. N. Dawson, R. C. Ritenour, Fred Graham, John O'Brien, Henry J. Thomas, Glenn Donohoo, Ralph Holton, Ed Oster, Sid Smith, E. R. Bryant, J. W. Prugh, John Dewine, Dennis DeWine and Williams S. Burns. The six former members who were reinstated were Harry D. Smith, A. V. Perrill, H. L. Herrick, S. O. Hale, J. W. Santmyer and M. F. Barrows.

The Columbus degree team exemplified the degree work on the class of new candidates, and the meeting was followed by refreshments. Many Elks witnessed the initiation exercises, which were the most elaborate conducted here for some time.

ANSWERED LETTERS

Young Housekeeper: "Why can't I completely seal my jars before the process of sterilization in the Cold Pack Method of canning? Every time I can fruit the sirup leaks out of the jars into the canner but if I had the side wire clamped down this could not happen.

Answer: The cover on a glass jar must not be tight while processing because the air will expand when heated and if the cover is not loose enough to allow the steam to escape the pressure may blow the rubber out or break the jar. Do not try it. If you have had such poor success with the all-glass-top style of jar, try the Mason screw-top jar and partially seal it for sterization in this way—either screw it down with the entire right hand until it catches, then turn it a quarter of a round back; or else screw it down with the thumb and little finger not using force, but stopping when the cover catches. No doubt the wire bails on your old jars have become stretched and loosened.

Bride: "Will you please give me a short list of good representative preserves for a well-stocked preserve closet? I have no idea what to put up. I can't afford many things."

Answer: Send stamped self-addressed envelope for my article on "What Every Preserve Closet Should Have," which I have had printed up to send to readers who write for it. This list contains a recipe for one jelly, one jam, one fruit butter, one conserve (for guest meals), one relish and one pickle.

Mrs. G. "My Cousin used to make an uncooked salad dressing with condensed milk, egg, vinegar and mustard, but I have lost the recipe. Can you give it to me?

Answer: The following salad dressing recipe was sent in to me by a reader-friend, and it is a splendid one, and evidently the one you refer to:

Uncooked Salad Dressing: I egg, 1 can condensed milk, 1 teaspoon salt, I teaspoon dry mustard, 1 cup vinegar. Beat the egg, unseparated with a dover beater. Add the milk and beat until very light, then add the salt. Mix the mustard and vinegar together and stir them into the first mixture. This recipe makes almost 1 quart and keeps indefinitely if kept in the refrigerator. It is excelent for cold slaw and all kinds of salads,—fruit, meat or vegetables.

The Revolt of Vera Sanderson

By JANE PHELPS.

THE REVOLT OF VERA
VERA IS ACCUSED OF EXTRAVAGANCE.

CHAPTER 73.

It had been the first time that Margaret had even hinted that Keith might not be true to me. It was not so, I argued with myself. He had not been nice about my clothes because of anything wrong he had done. What had I said, that Mrs. De Lisle had taken him from business while I was spending his money might have made him lenient, but that he had yet done anything to really wrong me I did not believe. Yet her remark haunted me.

"Keith probably let you have all those clothes because he felt guilty," she had said.

I wanted to ask him if Alice De Lisle was anything to him save a friend but I had learned not to yield so quickly to impulse as I had when I was first married. I was still implusive, apt to jump at conclusions, but where Margaret and her sneering speeches were concerned I had grown a bit callous. So I said nothing, but watched Keith more closely than I had in some time.

I went to the bridge, although Margaret said it was selfish to leave so young a baby for my own pleasure. I wore my gray and blue dress with the lovely gray hat that Keith had helped me select. He compliment ed me when I was ready, and kissed me foundly.

"I believe being a mother has made you look younger rather than older," he said. "I never saw you look better."

"Part of it is because I selected my own dress, and, with your help, the hat, I foolishly answered.

"I had no reference to your clothes," he returned. I had not heard her, but Margaret had come up the stairs and had overheard my remark, and his answer. She said:

"She means that because I did not go with her, Keith. That dress is very attractive, but I am sure I could have made a far better bargain. But of course one could not expect Vera to be as careful with your money as I am."

"I don't understand Margaret! I never have been extravagant, never have paid as much for clothes as you do—even when Keith pays for them for you. I"—

"That wil do, Vert," Keith said coldly, interrupting me.

"Excuse me, Keith, I did not mean to lose my temper." I said, "but I never could endure being unjustly accused.

Margaret had turned and gone down the stairs.

My evening was spoiled just because I lost control of myself. I played a good game so god everyone spoke of it, but I was not happy. I had offended Keith when I offended Margaret. Would I never learn to keep still, to let her talk, even let her misrepresent me, and say nothing until Keith and I were alone? Even on the way home he scarcely spoke to me, Margaret not once although they kept up a running fire of conversation between them.

It was days before Margaret spoke to me. Even the children noticed and Gloria asked me what I had done to make her mother mad. I tried to act as usual, but it was hard.

I knew that the loss of the control of Keith's money had been one of the objections to his marriage; that what he spent for me, and now the baby, she felt she had been deprived of. I too let my feeling about my husband's money influence my actions. I felt more and more keenly that as I was his wife I had rights that his sister could not have. Now that we had little June to take care of I felt this even more emphatically. And as it had warped Margtret's mind toward me, it poisoned my mind toward her.

Sometimes I wonder if nearly all the sorrow and trouble in the world isn't traceable in some way to money. If Keith had been poor,real poor, earning just a small salary, Margaret could not have learned to depend upon him for luxuries she could not afford, neither would she have insisted we live with them.

I never visited Erma Longstreet that I did not go home with my heart filled with envy. Jim earned only enough to be comfortable, yet Erma had her own home, was absolute mistress of it, and of Jim, as he said laughingly when he wanted to tease her. They had to economize in many ways—cheap seats at the theater. the gallery at the opera. few clothes, and the like. But they were so contented and happy, so in love with each other and with life, that I felt like crying when I compared the atmosphere in which I lived with theirs.

"You have the whole of Jim," I once told her, "while I don't have half of Keith."

"Nonsense! You have a good deal more than you will believe. I am sure Mr. Sanderson is very fond of you."

"Yes—perhaps—as fond as Margaret will let him be."

"You must get him to give you a home of your own, Vera. Do all you can think of to have him realize how much happier you would be—and him too."

"Oh, Erma if I only could!"

It was my constant cry—oh, for a home of my own!

Tomorrow—Mother Sanderson Comes Home.

AN ADVERTISEMENT HELPED HER

Mrs. Lucille Mackey, 16 Buena Vista St., Washington, Pa., writes: "Last winter my 3-year-old girl caught a bad cold which left her with a dry cough It bothered her most at night and she would cough until she vomited. I think she must have had whooping cough. I saw an advertisement for Foley's Honey and Tar. I tried it and bought two bottles and her cough left her before she finished the second bottle. She had gotten awfully thin but now she is as fat as ever." Sayre & Hemphill. adv

The Bulk Station—
Essential to Your Oil Supply

SOMEWHERE in nearly every city, town and hamlet of Ohio is the Standard Oil Bulk Supply Station, unnoticed perhaps, but playing its essential part in the life and industry of the community it serves.

Just as a city must depend for its water supply and its light on some central reservoir or station, so it must look to an adequate service for maintaining its supply of the vital products of petroleum necessary to its industry and its progress. The Standard Oil Bulk Station is prominent in this service, gauging the requirements of its field and maintaining the supply of fuels and lubricants which give light, heat, power and comfort.

Three hundred and more Standard Oil Bulk Stations dot the State of Ohio, located wherever the needs of people, of manufacturing and of farming have dictated. It is the aim of the Standard Oil Company of Ohio that this part of its distribution system shall always keep pace with the development of the State, ready always to serve where a new industry, a new activity, may spring up.

Standard Oil Bulk Station equipment has expanded with the constantly increasing army of motorists, for Red Crown Gasoline is one of the principal products handled through the bulk station. Automobile owners and drivers have been quick to realize the many advantages of this uniform fuel. Its complete range of boiling points gives full power at every engine speed. Snappy acceleration, plenty of pull on the hills and a quick response to a demand for speed are definite qualities of Red Crown Gasoline.

For dependable lubrication—Polarine Oil, Medium and Heavy. Polarine Transmission Lubricants and Polarine Cup Grease. Fill at the Red Crown Sign—Service Stations and Garages.

BOTH FACTIONS CLAIM VICTORY AT LABOR MEET

A. F. O. L. Convention Becomes Political Gathering.

CRISIS IS NEAR

Powerful Coalition Being Formed It Is Rumored.

Denver, June 21.—The convention of the American Federation of Labor has become a political convention, with all the big issues crewded into the background by electioneering and the question of whether John L. Lewis. 41 year old head of the United Mine Workers of America, can oust Samuel Gompers, the 71 year old veteran of the labor movement.

With both sides claiming victory today, the cautious ones are awaiting developments before forecasting results.

It is conceded on all sides, that the veteran head of the federation faces the greatest crisis in his career.

The announcement of Lewis' candidacy caused consternation in the Gompers' camp. The fear now is of a stampede for the younger leader.

According to Lewis' supporters, he would not have announced his candidacy had he not been assured of enough votes to win. They claim he has already 20,000 of the 38,000 votes of the convention.

Gomper's supporters make claim of more than 23,000 votes pledged.

The talk now is of the coal miners, the railroad workers and the metal trades forming a powerful coalition to secure control of the federation with the building trades and other large crafts assured adequate representation on the executive council, the central administrative body of the federation.

Means One Thing.

Such a coaltion, it is said, would mean the inauguration of a sweeping program of nationalization as proposed by the railroad unions, which now have a resolution before the committee demanding action by the council to apply the principle of government ownership and democratic control to the steel industry, the coal mines and other basic industries as well as the railroads.

An almost clean sweep of the executive council is predicted in event of Lewis's election.

The superstitious ones predict that old General Coincidence will win for Lewis. It was in Denver, 17 years ago that Gompers faced the first and only defeat of his career, and then as now, the head of the miners' union was his opponent.

The election may be held Thursday according to the preset outlook.

A drama may be staged, whatever the outcome. Either the aged leader, after an undisputed sway of nearly 40 years, will be made to surrender to youth or despite his 71 years, will show enough fight to score the greatest triumph of his career. The Lewis campaign is the first serious attempt to oust him. The younger leader is the first candidate to oppose him with suffiiciet stregth to be a formidable opponent, since John McBride head of the miners' union, defeated him in 1894.

RELIGIOUS REVIVAL SWEEPS RUSSIA

London, June 21.—Russia is going through a remarkable religious revival, said a Copenhagen dispatch to the Daily Telegraph today. More than 150,000 persons gathered in red square, under the walls of the Kremlin at Moscow, for devotional exercises. From the windows of his office in the Kremlin looked on and watched the patriarch bless the people. There were many officers and privates from the red army in the throng. Afterwards there was a procession, including many bishops of the "old faith" for upwards of three centuries, ecclesiastics of the "old faith' had refused to join the "orthodox church despite persecution to compel them to do so.

CONFESSED SLAYER OF KABER ENROUTE

Cleveland, June 21. —Salvatore Cala, one of the confessed slayers of Daniel Kaber, wealthy publisher, is expected to arrive in Cleveland some time tonight under guard of detective Phil Mooney, who is now in Buffalo.

The officer will leave with his prisoner some time after noon today.

Thus far no definite clue as to the present whereabouts of Vittoria Pisselli, also indicted for the murder has been found.

LICENSE ABUSES SUSPECTED

CSolumbus, Ohio, June 21—Abuse of dealers' licenses in handling of the auaomobile license tag situation was the subject of a statement by H. C. Smith, Secretary of State, as head of he license department. He promised to call to the attention of the Attorney-General all violations and asked for information as to the number of tags issued.

Complete Final Plans For Cross-Country Flight

Trip From Los Angeles To New York Will Be Non-stop Attempt Witn Object of Reaching Destination Within 38 Hours of Actual Flying.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 21.—Final plans were completed for the start, early today, of what is calculated to be a non-stop airplane flight from Los Angeles to New York City. The attempt is to be made in a giant airplane built by David R. Davis, which he has dubbed the "Davis trans-continental." The following is his own description of plans for the flight:

If weather conditions are favorable, I will leave Goodyear field Wednesday with Eric Springer, a pilot of international renown, in an attempt to make a non-stop flight to New York City. If we have good luck, we hope to land at Mineola field, within thirty-eight hours of actual flying time.

We admit that difficulties at first seemed tremendous, but in view of the fact that more than a year has been devoted to building this airplane and four months of constant tests have been made since it was in shape to fly, we have cut down the great handicap and feel that we really have a good chance to reach the Atlantic seaboard, without landing a single time en route.

The Davis Trans-continental, as I term the plane was designed and built under my supervision, by some of the ablest men in aviation circles. I have spent between $35,000 and $40,000 on the plane and in arranging for the flight.

It is one of the largest single-engine machines ever built, having a wing spread of 56 feet, a length of 35 feet and a total area of 800 square feet. It is entirely of American design and material and is of standard tractor biplane construction. The motive power is supplied by a 12 cylinder Liberty type of engine which develops 440 horsepower.

Mr. Springer and I will be protected by every possible safety device. There is a duplicate equipment in all essential parts. A dual control, of a remarkable type, will enable us to change places in piloting the air craft. The fire hazards are reduced to a minimum. We can get rid of our gasoline supply in fifty seconds. There are two asbestos curtains between the engine and the cockpit in which we ride. We will carry parachutes on our backs and a red cross kit for emergencies. We will carry lots of substantial food and a complete supply of maps.

The machine will carry 670 gallons of gasoline, 55 gallons of oil and 30 gallons of water. The total weight of the loaded ship will be 9,500 pounds. For night emergency purposes, we will have four huge flares.

Mr. Springer and I are hopeful of being able to fly back to Los Angeles from New York City to attend the international aviation meet here July 16.

TROOPS GUARD BRITISH KING IN IRISH CITY

Plans Are Laid For Visit To City Of Belfast.

Belfast, June 21.—Heavy reinforcements of troops and police are arriving here to guard King George and Queen Mary during the ceremonies attending the state opening of the northern Ireland (Ulster) parliament tomorrow. The Irish guards, brought especially from Aldershot, will lead the royal procession through the streets of this city.

Only $8,000 has been subscribed in response to the lord mayor's appeal for $500,000 to defray expenses of the celebration in honor of the King and queen. The lord mayor is deeply disappointed over the poor showing.

Between 10,000 and 20,000 soldiers, sailors, policemen and plain clothes detectives will line the street when king and queen enter this historic city and ride in state from the pier to parlaiment building.

Thirteen British warships will escort the royal yachts Albert and Victor to this city. The voyage will be made tonight. Extraordinary precautions have been made to prevent any kind of a political demonstration.

No persons will be allowed upon the roofs of the buildings along the way except policemen. The saloons in the city will be closed until 5:30 in the afternoon.

More than 6,000 picked soldiers will be stationed in Belfast and besides the soldiers, there will be between 2,000 and 3,000 special constables reinforcing the regular police force. More than 300 secret service agents from London and Dublin will mingle with the crowds.

King George is reported to have protested against such elaborate safeguarding but the military authorities insisted that every possible precaution should be taken to guard his life, in view of the turbulent situation now existing in Ireland.

Vanderlip To Tell "Truth" About Russia Upon Return

Head of American Syndicate Declares Hughes and Hoover Are Ignorant of Conditions as They Are In Russia—Will Start Campaign.

New York, June 21.—Washington D. Vanderlip, head of the American syndicate which has secured commercial concessions in Russia, will begin a national "campaign of education about Russia," when he arrives in this country tomorrow on board the liner Olympic. Announcement to this effect was contained in a wireless dispatch received by the International News Service from the promoter today.

The radiogram which was a reply to a queery as to Mr. Vanderlip's future program, follows:

"I intend to go before the real government—the American people, with press articles and lectures. Later, I shall go to Washington to talk with members of the administration. I believe that the administration must rise or fall according to its future antitude regarding Europe and Russia is the crux of the European situation.

"Secretary of the state Hughes and Secretary Hoover are ignorant regarding the truth. They have been misinformed by former prisoners of the revolutionists and by entente propaganda.

"The British white book sent to Secretary Hughes should have had a black cover, with a skull and cross bones. If the contents of this book are true why did England recognize Russia?.

"Secretary Hnughes and Secretary Hoover are always defeated because they are always on the wrong side. I consider victory easy. My biggest job was pushing England over the top. I expect an onslaught of government propaganda from the Civic Federation and the American Chamber of Commerce, but the more, the merrier. I am armed with the truth, with facts they do not possess.

"The syndicate (American syndicate headed by Vanderlip) is not in this for money. My last instructions from the directors were:

"'Put over a big thing—peace and reconstruction—concessions are secondary.'

"Everything is going according to schedule. The naval bases, the Murmansk pulpwood concession and the Kamtchatka concession are secure for all time."

Before leaving London, Mr. Vanderlip announced that the soviet government at Moscow had offered United States two naval bases on the Siberian coast in perpetuity, if the United States will open trade relations with Russia. That explained Mr. Vanderlip's reference to naval bases.

JUDGE CLAIMS SUPREME COURT DECISION NULLIFIES REFERENDUM

"Another Dred Scott Decision" Says Wanamaker—Judge Johnson Characterizes Dunn Act as "Comprehensive, Revolutionary Ripper Bill" in Interview

Columbus, O., June 21.—That the recent majority opinion of the state supreme court upholding the constitutionality of the emergency clause attached to the Dunn act providing for reorganization of state departments, practically nullified the practicability of the referendum provision of the state constitution is the claim made by State Supreme Judges Wanamaker, Republican and Johnson, Democrat, in dissenting opinions.

"I fear this is another Dred Scott decision," declared Judge Wanamaker. He said that the majority ruling "undermines the public confidence in our legislators, but it undermines ten fold more the public confidence in our courts." Referring to the declaration in the majority opinion that the judges had no judicial knowledge of anything to show the Dunn act was not an emergency, Judge Wanamaker said:

"What we commonly know as men, we cannot know as judge."

Judge Johnson characterized the Dunn act as a "comprehensive, revolutionary ripper bill." He declared that to hold it an emergency necessary for the immediate preservation of the public health, peace and safety, amounts to holding the initiative and referendum "a meaningless thing, worse than an ordinary plaything."

LOCAL MERCHANTS SIGN FOR BOOTH SPACE IN FESTIVAL

Letters sent out by the Chamber of Commerce to merchants who have not yet signed up for booth space in the big Fall Festival, to be held here the latter part of August and the first of September, have been fraught with results.

Many local merchants have sent in their requests for space, according to Secretary F. J. Slackford. Indications are now that the Festival will be much bigger and better than those engineered entirely by local business men several years ago.

One of the most interesting features of Festival week will be the automobile parade, according to the plans for such a novelty, which are being carried out by the Festival Production Company of Chillicothe, which company is staging the local Festival. Prizes will be offered for the best decorated automobiles and floats, and competent judges will be selected from among Xenia business men to decide on the awards.

ROGER W. BABSON TO GIVE ADDRESS AT KIWANIS MEET

Statistician Will Discuss the "Business utlook."

Cleveland, June 21.—Roger W. Babson, widely known statistician of Boston will deliver the principal address of the day at the Fifth international convention of Kiwanis Clubs now in session here this afternoon when he will discuss the "business outlook."

Harry F. Atwood, of Chicago will also speak this afternoon on "the constitution—our safeguard."

The morning session of this the first business day, was taken up with addresses of welcome to the delegates by Mayor William S. Fitzgerald and Governor Harry L. Davis.

Among the resolutions recommended for adoption today are propositions providing for a real budget system for the United States and the adoption of improved business methods by the federal government.

FIRE SWEEPS OVER BUSINESS BLOCK IN MARYLAND CITY, RAZING BUILDINGS

Baltimore, Md., June 21.— Fire which started early today in the town of Hampstead, Md., about 25 miles from this city, was not under control until seven business houses and three dwelling houses had been destroyed. Five amilies were rendered homeless and two men were slightly injured. The fire started in the garage of Samuel E. Keller, on Main street. A large number of automobiles were in the building and the oils added fuel to the flames which quickly spread to adjoining property. At one time, it appeared that the entire town which has a population of 1,500 was doomed, and aid was asked and rushed from nearby towns. Request for assistance also was sent to Baltimore. No estimate of the loss could be made at an early hour.

QUESTION RIGHT TO HOLD PROBE OF OHIO PRISON

Warden Maintains Committee Has Been Dissolved.

Columbus, O., June 21.—Attorney General Price has been asked to rule whether the special legislative committe has a legal right to conduct an investigation at this time of conditions prevailing at the penitentiary.

The request for a rulng was made by State Senator A. E. Culbert, Fremont, Republican, chairman of the committee, after Attorneys Randolph W. Walton and W. S. Pealer, Columbus, representing Warden Thomas, declared that the action of Gov. Davis in adjourning the state legislature dissolved the committee headed by Senator Culbert. Walton is a former member of the state civil service commission. Pealer was executive clerk to former Gov. Cox.

The committee selected Prosecutor F. H. Allyn, Ottawa county, for counsel and appointed State Senator James A. Reynolds, Cleveland, secretary, Senator Reynolds in the Democratic member of the committee.

BULLETINS

NEW EVIDENCE OBTAINED

New York, June 21.—An intimate, colorful "eye witness" account of life aboard James A. Stillman's yacht, when Mrs. Florence Lawler Leeds, reigned as its undisputed queen has been obtained—in deposition form—by attorneys of Mrs. Stillman, for use in her affirmative defense to the divorce suit charges, it became known today. The information is so highly valued that it will probably be made the very groundwork for the defendant's counter charges.

NEW RECORD.

St. Andrews, Scotland, June 21.—Jock Hutchinson's stock as a possible winner of the British open golf championship took a decided rise today when he turned in a 69 for the Eden course, establishing a new record and making a total score of 146 for the two days play, which insures him a place in the championship round starting tomorrow.

TWO POLICEMEN TO GIVE TESTIMONY

Cleveland, June 21.— Charles Alen, former reporter on the Cleveland News, and two policemen, will be the last witnesses called by the state in the prosecution of William H. McGannon, former chief justice of the municipal court, charged with perjury before resting its case today.

The defense expects to offer about 15 witnesses, according to a statement by Attorney W H. Boyd, McGannon's counsel. Among those to be called are a number who testified to McGannon's alibi at his two trials for the murder of Harold C. Kagy.

AMERICAN NAVAL POLICY MAY HINGE ON BOMBING TESTS STARTING TODAY

First Of Series Of Bombing Experiments To Prove Value Of Aerial Forces In Naval Warfare Under Way As Air Armada Sweeps Out to Sea.

Aboard the U. S. S. Henderson, off the Virginia Capes June 21.—It took a small division of naval seaplanes something less than 16 minutes today to send the ex-German submarine U-177 to join the many good vessels, which, it as a raider, has sent to Davy Jones' locker during the war.

On Board U. S. S. Henderson, off the Virginia Capes, June 21.—American naval policy is in the making today, as a great air armada sweeps out to sea from the Virginia Capes.

The first of a series of bombing tests to prove the value of aerial forces in naval warfare started today. If the air forces demonstrate their effectiveness in sea fighting and their ability to put out of commission the modern naval fighting ships, then the naval policy of the United States must undergo a change and the great grey dreadnaughts must fall into the back stream while the nation develops its air forces for protection on land and sea.

Out of the grey fog-banks flying in wide open formation, came the first squadron of the air fighters, swift, single-seated scout planes with a speed of 120 miles an hour —the eyes of the air fleet.

Somewhere here in the home waters is the "enemy"—the former German submarine U-117, one of the most powerful of the former German submarines, with its long record of "Tirpitz sea victories." The U-117 is believed to be the same bold craft that raided the New England coast, sinking fishing smacks early in 1918. Today, she is defenseless, unmanned and unguarded, shorn of her terror-striking power, awash in America waters a target for the airmen in mimic warfare.

The scouts of the air will find the "enemy." It is inevitable. And loafing along in the clouds near the shore line, are the aerial death-dealers, great lumbering bombing planes, flying in battle formation with their racks laden with high powered 163 pound bombs. The bombers are but waiting for the scouts to spot the "enemy" and flash its location.

Foremost in the attacking force are nine great F-5-L type machines each with a complement of four bombs. To the rear there is a division of torpedo planes, Martin bombers, with six bombs each. Following these at intervals of 20 minutes will come the droning, moaning, triple-motored NC type of seaplanes and a marine corps division of DH planes.

At Langley field, nervous tuning up under the direction of Brigadier General "Billie" Mitchell, are the Army fliers, praying that in this first test they may get a shot at the target. The navy fliers have the first opportunity today.

Along the horizon, there are bobbing little destroyers, ever ready to give aid to any airplane in distress, bu watching with a jealous eye as the strength of the set forces is attached from the air.

On board the Henderson, assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt, members of the naval affairs appropriations committee of congress and others are watching anxiously. They are lined with naval officers, grim-visaged old sea-dogs, and blithe young junior officers, all tense with interest.

Official results of the bombing may be not known fo r weeks, or the records o the observers will be subjected to highly technical scrutiny and against today's "scores" must be weighed the fact that there are no defenses. The "archies' are silent, the U-boat submerging valvs are closed and the propellers turn back and forth with only the power of the waves to drive them.

Rear Admiral Henry B. Wilson, in command of the Atlantic fleet, is in charge of today's tests, but immediate control is rested in Captain A. W. Johnson, commanding the Atlantic fleet air forces.

Brig. General Mitchell, who stirred up this whole fuss as to the value of the airplane pitted against naval fighting craft is in command of the army airplaines, somewhere in the air or back at the Land station, giving instructions to anxious pilots and perspiring mechanics.

On June 28, the most spectacular bombing test will be made when the old battleship Iowa, controlled by radio, will attempt to elude a fleet of air bombers.

STOCKS ON NEW YORK EXCHANGE REACH LOWEST L EVEL SINCE 1917

Deep Mystery Hangs Over Wall Street as to What Source Is Responsible for Tremendous Selling Orders —Shrinkage Amounts to Millions of Dollars

New York, June 21.—A deep mystery hangs over Wall street today. It is this: From what source comes the tremendous flood of selling orders that have forced the price of stocks on the New York stock exchange down to the lowest level since the peace break in -1917. The shrinkage in stock values has mounted into millions of dollars and the vast fortunes of millionaires which consisted mainly of railroad and industrial stocks have dwindled enormously.

All classes of securities are being hammered relentlessly from the standard issues with fine dividend records to the impoverished rails.

Canadian Pacific which sold as high as $283 a share in 1913, sold down to $101 a share, the lowest price it has touched in 20 years. The action of this stock has traders puzzled as it pays a 10 per cent dividend.

U. S. Steel common sold down to $71, the lowest price since 1915, when it sold at $38 a share.

Mexican Petroleum was another stock that suffered greatly, selling down to $103 a share against $264 a share in 1919. The spectacular break of 50 points in this issue has made it an object of particular scrutiny by the officials of the stock exchange who are keeping a vigilant eye open for signs of organized raiding.

Southern Pacific, a standard railway security paying 6 per cent dividend, sold down to $68.25 a share, against $101 a share early this year, just before the segregation of the California oil properties.

Northern Pacific, a rich and powerful member of the Hill group, which pays seven percent dividend, dropped to $64 a share, In 1916, it sold as high as $119 a share. It is a bear market with a vengeance, but while the spectators are making profits by "selling short" the odd lot brokerage houses (firms that handle small transactions) report that the public is coming into the market for an increasing volume of stocks. These issues are bought outright for investment. The orders range from five to 100 shares and come from bargain hunters.

There is a heavy turnoverq of stocks daily. The total shares dealt in yesterday was 1,169,900 divided as follows:

Railroad stocks 271,300; other stocks 898.600.

The average price of twenty railroad stocks was 57.40 against 61.15 a year ago. The average price of 30 representative industrial stocks was 63.53 against 91.87 a year ago.

BRANDS CLAUSE ON REPARATIONS AS WORLD DISASTER

British Labor Leader Scores existing Conditions in Europe.

Brighton, England, June 21.— The reparations clauses of the treaty of Versailles were branded as "disastrous to workers in every country in the world," by President Cameron of the trade union congress, in opening the British labor conference here today.

President Cameron charged that much unemployment was due to the conclusion of a military pease and a conspirary to wage an economic war against the central powers.

"It is impossible to impoverish one nation without spreading the plague to every other nation," said President Cameron.

"That is exactly what has happened. We are now faced with the most serious economic crisis in history.

"There must be public ownership of the land, the mines, the railways the shipping and all factories and workshops. But such ownership can only be acquired when we have captured political control of the nation."

STORM DAMAGED $250,000

Athens, Ohio, June 21—Half a score of homes, eight bridges and crops were swept away when a cloudburst struck Bern Township, Athens County. County roads and more than a mile of railroad tracks were washed out. Damage is estimated at a quarter of a million dollars.

Tuesday Health Talk No. 42.
G. C. DONOHOO, D. C.

Ailments peculiar to women affect their attractiveness. The fact is admitted. It is common to the experience of every one. No woman willingly suffers a decline of her womanly qualities.

Many of these sufferers have been sent to the operating table as a last resort. But with the advent of the science of chiropractic, a great change was brought about. Interference with the transmission of nerve impulses at the spine it has been found, lowers the natural vigor of these organs. Chiropractic spinal adjustments, freeing nerve lines, give Nature a chance to act with vigor and health returns. Few such operations are necessary now.

HOPES OTHERS MAY NOT WAIT TOO LONG

"I was sore and swollen all the time after having fifteen small tumors and two vital organs removed. For five months after the operation I could not walk. As a last resort my husband urged chiropractic. In less than three weeks I could walk and sleep. I wish every suffering woman would consult a chiropractor first. I shall always regret I did not know of it before I surrendered myself to the surgeons."—Mrs. D. C. Gafford, Chiropractic Research Bureau, Statement No. 1267L.

UNCLE BEN SAYS:—Reciprocity is a feller who done somethin' for sumbody what done sumthin' for him. That's the reason why I boost my Chiropractor.

PAINS IN SIDE AND BACK

Caused by Woman's Ills and Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Grafton, Pa.—"I was troubled with inflammation and pains in my sides and back. After doctoring with different doctors and not getting relief, I had almost given up hopes when my sister told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and knowing that she had really been helped by it, I purchased it. I was unable to do my work at that time, but after taking several bottles of the Vegetable Compound I can now do anything about the house or farm that a woman should do. I have a four months old baby that is the healthiest and biggest baby for his age that I have ever seen. I am willing for my letter to be used for a testimonial to tell other suffering women how much your medicine has done for me, as I give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound all the praise."—Mrs. BLAIR L. FISHER, R. D. 1, Box 37, Grafton, Pa.

Working early and late—lifting, carrying, and the heaviest of housbold duties—is it any wonder that it results in backaches and kindred ills. But every woman who suffers as Mrs. Fisher did should profit by her experience and give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

TROUBLED FOR TEN YEARS

If you suffer pains and aches during the day and sleep-disturbing bladder weakness by night, feel tired, nervous and run down, the kidneys and bladder need to be restored to healthy and regular action. J. T. Osburn R. F. D. No. 1, Lucasville, O., writes: "I had kidney trouble for ten years I tried many remedies but they did me no good. I took Foley Kidney Pills and they helped me so much that now I am well." Don't delay Sayre & Hemphill. adv

HOW TO REDUCE VARICOSE VEINS

Many people have become despondent because they have been led to believe that there is no remedy that will reduce swollen veins and bunches.

If you will get a two-ounce original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) at any first class drug store and apply it at home as directed you will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

Moone's Emerald Oil is very concentrated and a bottle lasts a long time—that's why it is a most inexpensive treatment. It has brought much comfort to worried people all over the country and is one of the wonderful discoveries of recent years and always bear in mind that anyone who is disappointed with its use can have their money refunded. Generous sample on receipt of 15 cents silver or stamps. International Laboratories, Rochester, N. druggist Sayre & Hemphill can supply you.

Any young man who desires to attend one of the training camps may secure the necessary physical test by taking his application blank to the nearest Public Health Service station. This arrangement was made in order that candidates might be saved the expense of a physical examination by civilian physicians. Arrangements are being completed whereby candidates may be examined by officers of the Medical Reserve Corps. Examinations are also given at any military camp, post or station.

OSBORN FAVORED IN DECISION OF THE SUPREME COURT

Columbus, June 21. A motion for an order directing the Greene county appellate court to certify its record was overruled today by the state supreme court in the case of the village of Fairfield et al versus the village of Osborn et al.

The decision of the Supreme court rests the case on the decision of the Greene County Commissioners, which decision was upheld by the Common Pleas Court here and by the Apellate court. By the decision Osborn was favored in its fight to acquire certain territory for the purpose of moving the village from the Miami Conservancy district, to a new site. Fairfield opposed the move by attempting to acquire the same territory that was being sought by Osborn.

GREEKS TO GIVE MEN A CHANCE

Wasington, June 21.—The Greek government has promised the American legation at Athens, that hereafter, men picked up for evassion of military service will be given a chance to prove their nationality before being impressed into the service, according to official advices reaching Washington today.

The action of the Greek government was taken in response to protests from the American government that many naturalized citizens were being catipulted into military service. The Greek government promised that men being picked up would be taken before the nearest consul of their adopted government instead of the prefecture of police.

If the American consul vouches for them they will be released.

THE FOOD VALUE OF A POTATO

Those who bring sunshine into the lives of others should not keep it from themselves.—Barrie.

"What is the food value of the potato?"

As purchased, the potato contains only 20 per cent of nutritive value.

A mealy well-cooked potato is in the proper physical condition to be readily acted upon by the digestive fluids. Cooking improves the taste of the potato, as from the continued use of cooked starch we have learned to prefer it to raw starch. While only 8.2 per cent of the protein is lost when the potatoes are plunged directly into the boiling water, if they are soaked for several hours before cooking abot 25 per cent is wasted, and if plunged into cold water which is then brought to a boil, 15.8 per cent of the protein is lost.

Such tests were made with peeled potatoes but when boiled with their jackets on the loss is only 1 per cent of the protein, and a little over 3 per cent of ash, by either process of cooking. Nutritive material is therefore saved if potatoes are boiled in their jackets. Some suggest to remove a section of the skin to allow the moisture to escape. As soon as the potato is cooked it should be taken from the water to prevent it from becoming "water soaked" or boiled to pieces.

In baking potatoes, very little nutriment is lost. The starch is thoroughly cooked as the temperature attained baking is several degrees above the boiling point. Unless they are to be eaten immediately, it is inadvisable to break open as soon as done to allow the steam to escape so that the tuber may not becoming 'soggy' on standing, then keep in a warm place covered with a clean towel or napkin to absorb the steam. If put in a covered porcelain dish, the steam is condensed and falls back on the potato.

Potato Chips, cut in thin slices, absorb as much as 39.8 per cent fat and the heat to which they have been exposed (which is above the temperature of boiling water) has driven off all except 2 per cent of the moisture. Fried potatoes are more thoroughly cooked if boiled before frying.

Besides mealy potatoes, which are prepared from well-developed tubes not too long stored, "waxy" potatoes are much in favor, especially for salad and fancy dishes, since they hold their shape better.

Styles

BY LENORE

What did the bridesmaids wear? That's what they always want to know, for next in importance to the wedding gown, and perhaps the groom, come the frocks of the bride's attendants as a center of interest. At one fashionable wedding in a Fifth Avenue church the bride's only attendant was clad in a frock of gossamer tulle over an overslip of silver cloth, the bodice shirred in at the neck on silver beading and cut crystal, the sparkling crystal repeated in the girdle which bound the waist just above the hips.

The chic frock in the sketch is a model suggested by a clever New York modiste, and was designed for a bride who wished to surround her wedding with an atmophere of old-time quaintness. Hence the bouffant hips and 1830 neckline, becoming to all types of youth. Mauve taffeta with silver grapes and gray tulle hats may be chosen, or the frocks may be pinkish yellow, with hats of brown tulle and lace. The point edging at the necklace is of self-material.

Pattern No. 187

A pattern for the above model (No. 187) can be obtained in sizes 34, 36, 38 or 50, by sending to Lenore, 8 West 40th Street, New York City, your name,address, the number of this pattern and the size required and 30 cents in postage stamps. Be sure to keep this newspaper clipping of the sketch and description of the garment to use as a working model when the pattern reaches you—which will be within two weeks' time.—The Editor.

LAST RITES PAID TUESDAY MORNING

Simple and impressive services for Mrs. F. C. Hubble were held at the home in Alpha, Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. The services were in charge of Rev. Albert Read of this city, assisted by Rev. J. F. Tappy of Indiana, former pastor of the Beaver Reformed church, and J. Stanley Richards, of Dayton, assistant pastor of that church, and a student of the Dayton Theological Seminary.

The services were attended by a host of friends of Mrs. Hubble, and many floral tributes bore testimony of the high esteem in which Mrs. Hubble was held. Eleven members of the Junior Woman's Club of this city, and several members of the Greene County Library Board, of which Mrs. Hubble was a member, attended the services.

A quartette of the Beaver Reformed church sang several numbers at the services.

Pallbearers were D. W. Cherry of this city, C. A. Jacobs, Andrew R. Thompson, of Alpha, Steele Poague of this city, Chester Williamson, as business associate of Mr. Hubble, of Dayton, and Frank Smith of this city. Interment was made at Woodland cemetery this city.

SURPRISE ATTACK SUCCESSFUL

Bucyrus, June 21. —Scoutmaster Spaid and Socut Loraine Wagner, og Boy Scout troup No. 8, went for an overnight hike at the Rossman farm three and one half miles east of the city. After setting up the camp for the night, they went for an evening swim before supper, when the rest of the troupe would arrive, and on their return found their camp had been raided by a drove of hogs which had raided the luncheon haversacks of he boys and were making of with the haversacks. The main squad that arrived later furnished grub for the two.

MAN 75, ALLEGED TO HAVE STOLEN HORSE AND BUGGY

Cillicothe, June 21.—Asa Cordrey 75 years of age well known in Fayette, Ross and Highland counties, and who it is said, has two penitentiary terms to his credit has been held to the grand jury in Ross county on a charge of stealing a horse and buggy from Elmer Carder, in Ross Sounty.

Cordrey, it is alleged, stole the horse last Monday and was arrested in Highland county on Wednesday and returned to Chillicothe. He claimed he had purchased the horse.

RUSSIAN WAIFS LIVE UNDER GUARDIAN'S MILITARY RULE

Seven little Russian kiddies brought here by Admiral McCully.

These seven Russian waifs, brought to the United States last winter from Sebastopol by Rear Admiral Newton McCully, U. S. N., have their own "rules of living." These rules are much like a gob's, perhaps because they were drawn up by their naval guardian in a sixteen-page booklet. Under these regulations the children will rise at 7 a. m. and go to bed at 8 p. m. (ask any tired father how long they'll lie awake hollering for water, stories, etc.), and every minute of the period between is carefully provided for, with special routines for Sundays and holidays. The children have just left Washington, D. C., "under orders" for Anderson, S. C., where they will spend the summer with Admiral McCully's mother.

OLD LANDMARK TO GIVE WAY TO NEW PRINTING HOUSE

Findley M. Torrence, editor of Wood Construction, a lumber trade paper, owned by the Ohio Association of Retail Lumber Dealers of which Mr. Torrence is Secretary-Manager, will open a new printing house, to be known as the Buckeye Press, in the Norckauer building, 24 West Main street, within a short time.

The new company will do a general printing business, and new equipment is now being installed in the room. H. E. Kiernan, who has been operating his own job printing business for the last ten or twelve years, will be associated with Mr. Torrence in the new enterprise, and has closed out his business on East Main street.

The Norckauer building, occupied for years by the John F. Norckauer grocery, is being remodeled for the occupancy of the new printing concern. Mr. Norckauer has closed out his stock of groceries and is retiring from active business, the removal of his grocery, marking the passing of a landmark, of a quarter of a century.

Mr. Torrence is preparing to remove his offices from East Main street to the new location, where they will be on the first floor.

TUESDAY ELKS' DAY AT LOCAL RACES

Tuesday, the opening day of the race meeting of the Xenia Trotting Association, at the Fairgrounds, is Elk's Day.

On that day, Elks will not be admitted free, but Elk's were given tickets to sell, and their lodge will benefit by a commission given by the Trotting Association.

The same is true of Wednesday, which is known as American Legion Day, when Foody Post, will be given a commission of the gate receipts on tickets sold in the Legion.

GOLF AND HOW TO PLAY IT

By Chas. "Chick" Evans Jr.

Indian File.

I have never forgotten the remark of a fine old professor who did his best to make something of me in my academy days. He said that all actual learning must be done in solitude—the way of the student was Indian file. That was a graphic way of stating a golfing truth as well as an educational one. To my early recognition of the fact that this truth applies also to the world of sport I owe much of my success at golf. In saying this I do not mean to write anything against that delightful feature of the game—companionship on the links—for nothing can take the place of that, but I do mean that for the ambitious golfer who wants to learn how to control his shots a certain amount of solitary practice is absolutely necessary.

One may play well at times in matches but the sort of skill that results in a reasonable certainty of being able to produce a given shot at a given time must be the product of a practice that is something akin to the practice of scales by a musician. Muscles must be so trained by intellient repetition that the power to make the correct shot becomes largely automatic.

When a man plays in a match the fighting, rather than the artistic spirit is uppermost and he is tempted to do many an unorthodox thing in order to gain a temporary advantage. If this becomes habitual the wrong consists in having no settled method, being really master of no shot. The impulsive player who trusts to the inspiration of the moment may rise to great heights, but alas! he falls, too, to great depths.

The real object of training is to acquire a settled form, for the good player is one that averages high; the veriest dub may be able at times, playing subjectively, to make a fine round. Therefore, I particularly advise the player who hopes to improve to make a great effort to find a few regular hours of solitary practice during the week.

It is my theory that the problem before each golfer is how to adopt his individuality to the game. In working this out he will necessarily make many mistakes, and it is best to meet and conquer them alone.

The onlooker is likely to judge one too leniently, or too severely. The hard conscientious worker needs a tempered judgment. It must not be severe enough to discourage, nor lenient enough to overlok serious faults. It is easy to crush a beginner by criticisms, it is equally easy to smother out any good game by undue flattery.

For these many reasons I advise after acquiring the fundamentals from a professional to spend a little systematic time in solitary practice, striving to look at one's game impersonally and keep one's judgment clear and level headed.

CHANGES LOCATION OF GROCERY STORE

Charles McNutt, who for the past year has conducted a grocery store and meat market on Charles street, has moved his place of business to a new location on North Detroit street,, occupying the building formerly used as a traction freight depot.

Mr. McNutt came to this city about one year ago from Toledo, and entered the grocery business on Charles street. The building chosen for his new location has been remodeled, and the store is thought to prove popular in that section of the city.

"THAT FOUL THING, THE HUMAN HEART."

Nathaniel Hawthorne's story entitled "Earth's Holocaust," is the story of men and women who became weary of their foibles and follies and sought to be rid of their fripperies and foolishness. They determined to make an end of them by burning. A great mountain of useless and silly possessions was lighted and the flame and smoke of them rose to the sky. There were in the company a number of reprobates who were sad of countenance now that their business was gone. Satan came up to comfort them: "Be not cast down, my peers," he said, "there is one thing these wiseacres have forgotten." "What is that?" they all shouted. "They have forgotten the human heart. Unless they hit upon some trick of purifying that foul thing, it will soon be the same old world again."

Our world is greatly disturbed. Warring elements and commotions are on every hand. It would be hard to find a spot where there is perfect peace and quietness. Countries and nations are agitated. Oppression and offensive warfare are agitating many lands. Internal contentions are arousing the people of many communities. Crimes abound. Laws are broken. Feuds and lynchings, with wanton destruction of public and private property, are reported from many quarters. The world seems to be moaning and groaning as one does who lies on his bed sick in the delirium of a fever. What can be done to bring about the return of peaceful and happy conditions?

The supreme business is to change the heart of the world. External remedies will never accomplish the task. We must not think that we have the supreme task completed when we change environments and social status. Change the heart and you change the individual. Only changed hearts can create a changed world. "As a man thinks in his heart, so is he." The Church has been doing some very fine things here and there. Some fine day it will step forth in the limelight of God's approval and present to him the healed heart of a hitherto very sick world.

THE FIRST DOLLAR.

John D. Rockefeller recently described to a group of admiring grandchildren how, seventy-three years ago, he earned his first dollar by raising and selling turkeys; and he signalized the occasion by distributing bright new buffalo nickels, which may prove the nest-eggs of fortunes like his own.

Somebody might write an interesting book by assembling accounts of the way in which men who now have big names in the industrial world made their first dollar. If a boy in this current year of grace thinks he hasn't a chance such as that which Rockefeller or Carnegie or Edison or Schwab had years ago, let him ask himself what the boys of 2000 years hence are going to do. The development of this world of ours is just beginning. Our country itself is still in its infancy. There are abounding lucrative opportunities on every hand today, such as no past era in the world's history has known.

The way the first dollar is earned may determine the trend of a lifetime. If it is earned dishonorably, it may fix a taste that in the long run assures disaster. Every dollar earned and put to work or put by makes it easier to add to the number. Those who, even from a slender pittance, are able to save a little have acquired a habit that lays the surest foundation stone of wealth.

IT'S "UP TO YOU," AND DON'T YOU FORGET IT.

William James held that we can always do more than we think we are able to do.

The late "Tom" Shevlin, Yale football player and coach, waxed eloquent on that subject to his pupils. "If you think you can, you can. If you think you can't, the football field is no place for you."

It was a favorite theory of Mr. Shevlin that we are or we aren't, we do or we don't, and that's all there is to it.

Oceans of talk cannot cover up a failure. All that an employer wants to know is whether the goods were delivered or not. Excuses do not matter.

Everywhere are people who are only half alive—only half doing their work—barely passing muster—scraping through like a schoolboy in an examination, with a mark just high enough to qualify.

Forever we have to fight our own inertia. When we speak of being the victims of circumstances, we misuse the word circumstances. It is not the things "standing around" us, as the word signifies, but the things indwelling—the bad habits whose hold is so tenacious—that hold us back and pull us down, and keep us from realizing the fullness of the promise of our youth.

We talk of "seeing life," and when we say that what do we mean? We mean a loafer's definition of pleasure; we mean luxurious trifling, frivolity and inanition.

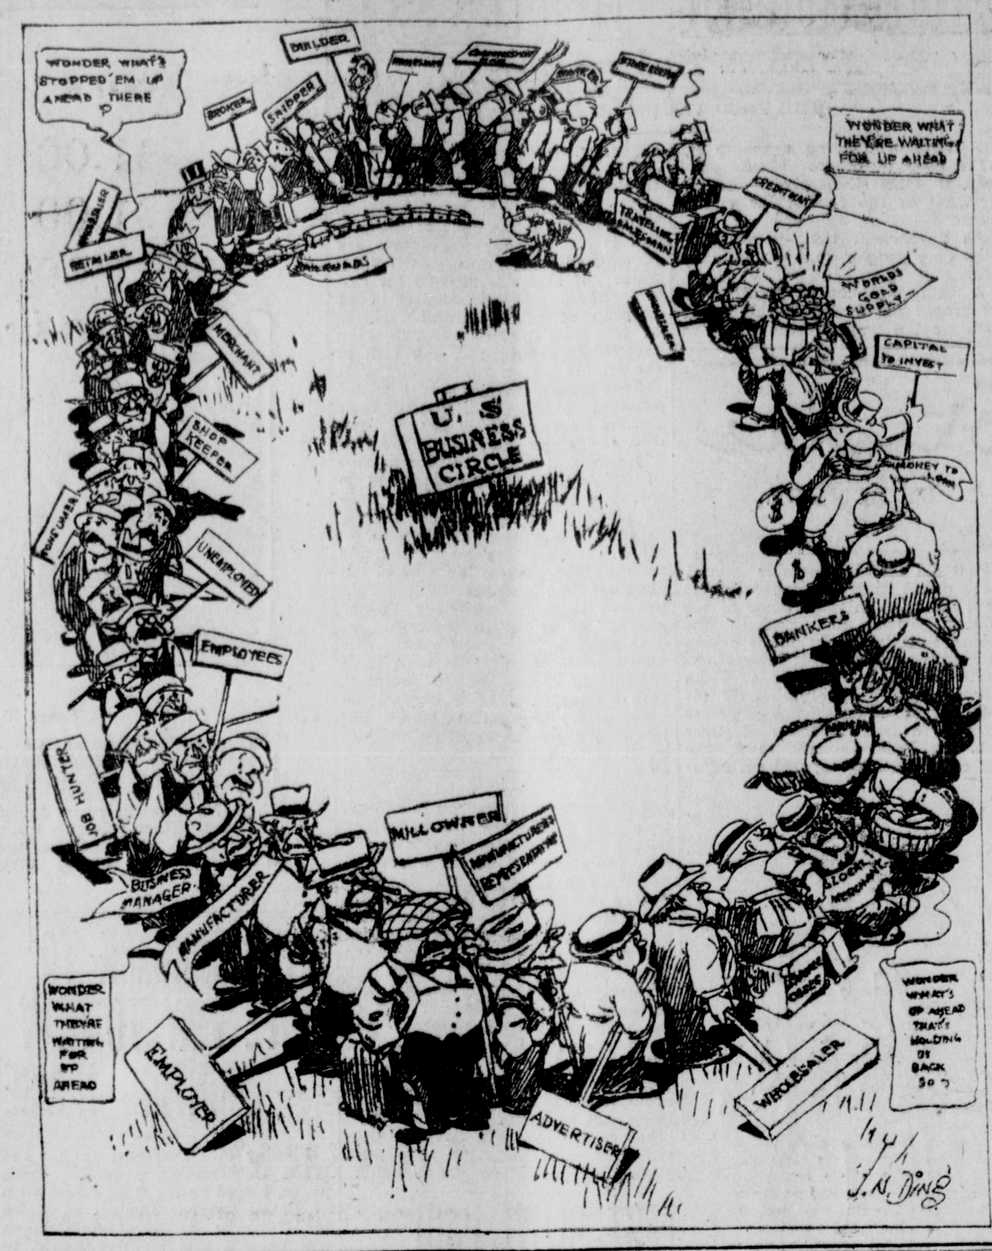

"Seeing life" might mean visiting a steel mill, or watching the building of ships or hats or locomotives; but instead we use the word to indicate some sort of "slumming" expedition, in high life or low.

"You're missing the best of your life," some tempter urges, pointing the way toward gilded, rose-hung and dazzling iniquity.

But that isn't life. Burning the candle at both ends in riotous excesses is the destruction of life. Those who are half living are those who are fooling away the years with nothing to show for it but the memory of smooth and shining floors, dance, cards and chandeliers and indigestible "refreshments."

The half-living are those who bring a fagged and listless body to the day's work.

WAITING FRR "SOMEBODY UP AHEAD" TO START UP SO THE PROCESSION CAN MOVE.

1901--Twenty Years Ago--1921

Mr. L. F. Clevenger, who has been enjoying a visit with his family here, for several days, will return to Buffalo, tomorrow, where he is connected with the Pan American Candy Company.

The directors of the People's Building and Savings Company held a caucus yesterday evening to determine the feeling of the members with reference to the secretary of the company. Mr. Thomas J. Kennedy, who for a number of years has been one of the office force at the Pan Handle freight depot was the choice of the majority of the directors.

Mr. Thomas Owens, the contractor, is feeling happy over a fine contract which was awarded him in Dayton. He will build a three story porch on the front of the main building of the Dayton State Hospital.

About thirty Xenians took their departure, yesterday, for Columbus to attend the state convention. A special train came through yesterday on the Pan-Handle, carrying the Hamilton county delegation.

The School Board held a meeting last night and the members inspected the plans for the West Market street building. No conclusion was reached as to the selection of the plans, and another meeting will be held tonight.

executors to pay annuities of $100,000 in accordance with another provision of the will.

The action of the court was petitioned for by Mary Orr Barber, widow; Anna L. Bevan, daughter, of Chicago; Charles T. Thwing, Cleveland. Warren Becknell and Andrew Squire, executors.

RAILS TO REQUEST LOWERED WAGES

Washington, June 30.— Three good sized American freight steamers which recently disappeared in a puzzling fashion, while off the mid-Atlantic coast, now are believed to have been taken over by their crews and run into soviet Russian ports, according to information reaching Secretary of Commerce Hoover today.

Two of the steamers are understood to have been laden with wheat and one with sulphur. Details are yet lacking.

The disappearance of the steamers occurred about the same time the derelict Carol A. Deering was found floating off the North Carolina coast without a man aboard. The ship was was in good condition and its case has been a puzzle to the authorities.

HORSES DECREASE AT RAPID RATE 1920 CENSUS SHOWS

Washington, D. C. June 21.— A marked reduction during the last decade in the number of draft animals employed in the largest cities was shown in the 1920 census. Figures made public by the census bureau showed 56,539 horses in New York City as compared with 128,224 in 1910, and 30,399 in Chicago against 68,122.

Figures for other cities announced included: Philadelphia, 19482 and 50,461; Baltimore 7378 and 15,346; Boston 10,093 and 23,007; Pittsburgh 6032 and 12,845; Cincinnati 5031 and 13,901; Cleveland 4924 and 16,829.

WELL PAID.

The day's at hand when Carp and Jack will battle in their pride; and oh, the large and gorgeous stack of money they'll divide, when each has slugged the other's dome for six or seven rounds—and Milton sold his greatest pome for something like ten pounds. I'm glad that in these later days true genius gets its due, and Great Men do not go their ways in rags of dingy hue. Poor Bobbie Burns was always broke, which made his soul repine, and Edgar Poe was forced to soak his hat when he would dine. The list is long of gifted men who always lacked the price, who did tall things with harp or pen, and still were handed ice. E'en Homer begged from town to town, and stole the housedog's bone; though later, in his high renown, each claimed him for its own. Old Grubb street echoed to the wails of many a gifted gink, and Boswell's book is full of tales of genius on the blink. But now our great men get their due when they have made a hit, and when the coming scrap is through a fortune will be split. It was hard luck that Burns and Poe and Homer and that crew were born so many years ago, ere greatness got its due.

CHAUFFEUR CHARGES TRIO WITH ASSAULT; ARRESTS FOLLOW

Charles Harris, Joseph Akins and Joseph Vallero, colored, are locked up in the county jail pending a hearing on a charge of assault and battery, preferred against them by Joseph Moore, colored chauffeur for J. R. Hill, of Springfield.

Moore claims that he was returning with the Hill family from Latonia where they had attended the races, when their car broke down at Middletown, and he was left with the car while the Hill family returned to Springfield on the train. After the car was repaired, Moore claimed he started to drive to Springfield but was accosted at Wilberforce by the three men charged in the affidavit who charged him with stealing an automobile belonging to Vallero, and handled him roughly. Sheriff Funderburg arrested the trio, who are on $100 bond for their appearance, Tuesday or Wednesday before Magistrate Jones.

WILL HOLD JOINT MEMORIAL SERVICES

Joint memorial services will be conducted by the Zanetta Council, No. 120 of the Daughters of America, and the Wahoo Tribe, No. 41, of the Improved Order of Red Men at the Red Men's Hall on Sunday afternoon at two o'clock. The services will be held in memory of the deceased members of the two lodges. Following the services the members of the lodges will go to Woodland cemetery, where the graves of the deceased members will be decorated.

GAMBLING CHARGED; TWO GET SENTENCE

Charles Miller and Earl Jackson, arrested by Sheriff Funderburg at Kilkare Park Sunday and charged with gambling on a specific charge of crap shooting, were fined $10 and costs and sentenced to 15 days in the Dayton workhouse by Magistrate J. E. Jones, Monday.

Homer Toner, arrested with Miller and Jackson at the Park on a charge of having liquor in his posession was fined $100 and costs for violation of the Crabbe Act.

ARRESTED FOLLOWING COMPLAINT MONDAY

Following complaints received from the Fairgrounds, Monday, Sheriff Funderburg arrested six men on the Dayton pike, and charged them with drunk and disorderly.

The men were Thomas Jackson, Elijah Bird, Clarence Sevall and C. Ewing, all colored and Robert Nelson and Roy Wallace, white. It is charged that the men had been drinking at the Fairgrounds but got away before the arrival of the officers, who later caught them on the Dayton pike, near the County Infirmary, when their machine broke down. They were each fined $5 and costs.

ANSWERED LETTERS.

Burlap B.—A puffy condition under the eyes usually comes from a disturbance of some function, either of the kidneys or liver. You should consult your doctor about it.

Terry.—There is a mistake in your prescription, as oils could not be used as a means of curling the hair.

M. D.—Bathe the armpits several times each day with cold water in which several drops of benzoin are used to each pint of water—this will cause the water to turn to a milky liquid, which decides the amount of benzoin. It will neutralize the odor from perspiration and harded the skin so it will improve the condition you complain of.

F. M. S.—In spite of the fact that your appetite is good, your body is not receiving enough nourishment seventy eight pounds is too far below normal weight, for you to be indifferent to the cause.

S. P. H.—Keep the child's hair bobbed or shingled and give it all the sun and air that you can. This with a clean scalp, is all the treatment that will be needed.

Babriella.—The information was about bicarbonate of soda, or the ordinary baking soda, to be used for keeping the hair light.

Mrs. S.—The little tear duct that runs from the corners of the eye into the nose is probably inflamed from so much crying. Use hot or very cold compresses over the eyes morning and evening, which will relieve it, provided you do not continue the habit.

Anxious Marie.—The electric needle will destroy the hair follicle and no other hair will grow at that place, but that does not signify that you will not grow hair from some other place. If you have the tendency you will grow hair again, but you can lessen it by keeping the pores free from any accumulation of grime and oil secretion.

Elsie.—A chiropodist wil explain to you about that condition. If you send an addressed stamped envelope, I shall be pleased to send you a formula for a tonic good for hair that is turning grey prematurely.

R. F. S.—To Strengthen the muscles of a stomach that have grown flabby, lie flat on the back, arms extended by the sides; bend the knees and slowly raise both legs ts far as they will go Press the thighs firmly against the abdomen and hold the position for a few seconds; then extend and lower the legs to first position. Follow this by standing erect, then lift your right knee and clasp it with your hands, pulling it up as high as you can, against the abdomen. Hold for a few seconds and release it. Repeat the exercise. using the other leg.

CARPENTIER KNOWS GAME OF BOXING DECLARES CORBETT

BY JAMES J. CORBETT.

Nanhasett L. I., June 21.—I talked with Georges Carpentier about boxing, pro and con, especially some of the fine point of it. We chatted about boxers and their styles and I found the French champion one who talks of boxing very intelligently.

For a number of things Carpentier said. I am convinced that he knows the game, but as far as his public exhibitions are concerned, I'm inclined to think that he is kidding all of us.

The outstanding thing that Georges has unlashed—and that very sparingly—has been his whiplash right. We all know he possesses a great right hand.

So far Carpentier has shown no defensive to amount to anything, yet I think he surely must have a good defense. He certainly impressed me in my talk with him that he realizes the value of a strong defense. Defense is going to be a most important thing for Carpentier in his fight with Dempsey. First of all because of the rushing style characteristics of the champion.

COURT NEWS

Appellate Court Upholds Decision

In a decision handed down, Monday, the Court of Appeals overruled the motion of the defendant for a rehearing of the case of Annie E. Barrett against Adelaide Skinner.

The plaintiff in her petition asked for an acounting of estate and settlement and the decision in Common Pleas Court ordered the defendant to pay back to the estate a large amount of money. Attorneys for the defendant petitioned the Apellate Court for a rehearing which has been just overruled.

Attorneys in the case are C. L. Darlington, for the plaintiff and Marcus Shoup and W. L. Miller for the defendant.

Asks for Small Judgment

The W. B. Wood Manufacturing Company of St. Louis is plaintiff in a suit filed with Clerk of Courts C. S. Johnson, Monday, against the Fuller Ice Cream and Soda Water Company, asking for a $250 judgment. The petition alleges the amount is due on goods sold the defendant with interest of six per cent from June 1, 1920. The law firm of Miller & Finney represent the plaintiff.

Two Suits For Divorce

Lucile Kenney, is plaintiff in an action for divorce filed with Clerk of Courts C. S. Johnson Monday against Robert Kenney. The petition charges gross neglect and desertion. They were married December 24, 1919 and have one child, Olive May, aged nine months. The plaintiff charges defendant abandoned her, August 23, 1920.

The defendant was arrested by Probation Officer Joe Watts and brought before Judge J. Carl Marshal in Probate Court, Monday, on a warrant charging him with non-support sworn out by Prescutor J. Kenneth Williamson. Judge Marshal ordered him to pay $3.50 a week for support of the child.

Elizabeth Shaw is plaintiff in a divorce action filed Monday against Laayette Shaw. The couple were married October 23, 1917 and have one son, Lafayette, three years old. The plaintiff charges gross neglect for two years and extreme cruelty.

Partition Suit Filed

An interesting siut for partition of estate was filed with Clerk of Courts C. S. Johnson, Monday, by attorneys for Frank M. Corry.

The suit names as defendants, Robert E. Corry, Riley J. Corry, Lee B. Corry, Harry B. Corry, Lydia Alta Jobe, Ida May Currie, Corry Bull, Chas. Bull, Kitty F. Andrews, Carrie Gillis, Lida Crouch Corry, Kate Corry, James Corry, Lena Belle Corry, Herman C. Corry, Ernest E. Corry, Margaret Campbell Corry, Ethel Stewart Corry, Homer C. Corry, Thomas Elder Corry, Mary Belle Garlough, Chester B. Corry, Rachel Josephine Kelly, Jamie Allison, Frederick Allison, Elizabeth Jackson Corry, Aletha Collins, Lida Skinner and Mathew C. Fleming.

The petition states that the plaintiff is a son of William R. Corry, who died intestate October 31, 1885. William R. Corry was a son of Mathew Corry, who died May 5, 1864, possessed of property and who gave this land to one son, Henry J. Carry, a brother of Wm. R. Corry. Henry J. Corry intermarried in 1857 with Lyda Collins and there were no children. Henry J. Corry dying intestate August 28, 1871 and his wife died June 15, 1921.

The petition states the the funeral expenses of Henry J. Corry were paid and the separate estate of Lyda Corry is ample to cover her debts. The plaintiff says that as a nephew and heir-at-law of Henry J. Corry, he has a legal right to 1-48th part of the real estate of Lyda Corry of whom the following are tenants with the plaintiff: R. E. Corry, Riley J. Corry, Lee B. Corry Harry R. Corry, Lyda Alta Jones, and Ida May Currie, sons and daughters of William R. Corry and nephews and nieces of Henry J. Corry, each entitled to 1-48th part, Charles Bull, Corry Bull, Kitty E. Andrews and Carrie Gillis, sons and daughters of Anna Alice Bull and grand children of W. R. Corry, are entitled to 1-92 part; Mary Belle Garlough, Charles B. Corry and Rachel Josephine Kelly, children of James B. Corry, are nices and nephews of Henry J. Corry and entitled to 1-36th part; Homer C. Corry and Thomas Elder Corry, are sons of Robert F. Corry, grandsons of James B. Corry, and are entitled to 1-72 part, subject to the dower interest of Margaret Campbell Corry; James Corry and Lena Belle Corry are children of James A. Corry and grandchildren of James B. Corry and are entitled to 1-72 interest subject to the dower of Kate Corry; Lida Crouch Corry, widow of Mathew H. Corry, son of James B. Corry, is entitled to 1-36 part; James and Frederick Allison, are grandchildren of Anna B. Allison, and gradnieces of Henry J. Corry and are entitled to 1-12 interest; Hannah Collins who died October 1, 1855 was a sister of Henry J. Corry, and has a daughter, Aletha Collins entitled to 1-6th interest; Rachel Fleming, who died September 14, 1896 was the mother of Lida Skinner and Matthew C. Fleming, who are entitled to 1-12th interest according to the petition; Riley J. Corry and Lee B. Corry, as executors of the estate of Matthew Corry, brother of Henry J. Corry are entitled to 1-6th interest, the petition avers.

The estate consists of 136.38 acres and the plaintiff wants his interest set off to him separately and the interest of the defendants be assigned to them and partition made. Attorneys for the plaintiff are Anderson and McKee of Springfield.

BLAME BLACKHAND

Bellaire June 18—Police believe Chicago blackhanders may have paid $100 for the privilege of murdering Paul Baccabella, 30, local Italian. Baccabella, residing with his brother and working in a local mine, had property in Chicago. He received $100 to defray expenses of a trip to Chicago and for loss of his time in the mine when he was told he had a chance to sell the property. Soon after his arrival in Chicago he was attacked, dying in a few hours. The body was brought here for interment.

GETTING ALONG GOOD

Women are as great sufferers from kidney and bladder ailments as men Foley Kidney Pills help rid the blood stream of impurities that cause rheumatic pains, backache, swollen, aching joints and stiff, painful muscles. Mrs Carey, Box 91, R. F. D. No. 2, Middletown, N. Y., writes: "I had kidney trouble ever since I was a little girl but I am getting along good since I have taken Foley Kidney Pills." They act immediately and help restore the kidneys to healthful activity. Sayre & Hemphill. adv

1st Prize

Here is the answer that won the 1st prize of $10.00 in Kennedy's contest, of "WHY IS KENNEDY THE LEADING OR LARGEST RETAILER OF GROCERIES IN XENIA"

Joe Kennedy has made a phenomenal success of the grocery business in three and one half years.

WHY?

Good common sense, business judgment and honesty has been sensibly applied.

Constant use of clever, catchy newspaper advertising has been made.

Feature advertising hasn't been overlooked.

The highest class goods at the lowest market prices have been offered.

Stocks are always fresh, and always moving.

Shop worn, dusty merchandise never burdens Kennedy's shelves.

His business houses are clean and attractive.

Customers are met courteously, and served quickly and well.

Window displays are never allowed to grow stale.

They are planned to attract the passer and make him a purchaser.

Then—with all that, Kennedy understands people.

That's Why.

DINNER STORIES

It was washing day and John had been kept from school to look after the baby. Mother sent them into the garden to play, but it was not long before cries disturbed her.

"John, what is the matter with baby, now?" she inquired from her wash-tub.

"I don't know what to do with him, mother," replied John. "He's dug a hole and wants to bring it into the house."

A man on the South Side advertised his car for sale. Early the next morning a man who lived across the street came over and said: "Pardon me, but I see by last night's paper you advertised your car for sale."

"Quite true," said the man who advertised the car, "but surely you are not in the market for it."

"No," was the reply, "but I only live across the street and I also want to sell my car. And there would be no need of my spending my money for an advertisement if people were through looking at your car you could just send them across the street to look at my car."

He was unaware of the eccentricities to be found in western Canada. He entered what was apparently the only hotel in the place.

After ushering him to a table and giving the stranger the usual glass of water the waiter inquired:

"Dinner is served, sir. Will you have sausages on toast?"

"No, I never eat 'em!"

"In that case, sir," replied the waiter, moving away, "dinner is over."

"Now then, Johnny," said his teacher, "if your father gave you seven cents and your mother gave you six and your uncle gave you four more, what would you have?"

Johnny wrinkled up his forehead and went into the silence for the space of several minutes.

"Come, come," said the teacher impatiently. "Surely you can solve a simple little problem like that."

"It ain't a simple problem at all," replied the boy. "I can't make up my mind whether I'd have an ice cream soda or go to the movies."

A well-known comedian tells us that the colored "extras" are the most careful and considerate people on the lot when it comes to handling their children. A darkey, his wife and pickaninny were working in a comedy. There came a scene where the parents were needed but the baby was "out."

"What'll Ah do with li'l Egbert?" asked the father. "Put him in 'at clothes basket ovah there," said the mother. "Be sure an' don't stand him on his head—he might fret."

At Gilbert Chesterton's debut this prince of paradoxes was outparadoxed by a young lady in the audience who complained to her escort: "Whatever did you mean, he's intellectual? I didn't expect to understand a thing, and I understand every word of it. You've gone and wasted my whole evening!"

PRICE OF GASOLINE LOWEST IN 5 YEARS

The lowest price quoted on gasoline for about five years went into effect Saturday when the station price was cut from 25 to 22 and one half cents, the price being uniform over the state.

The reduction is said to be the direct result of the fact that at present there is no export business, which in accordance with the law of supply and demand, the price is reduced as the result of the amount of 'gas' exceeding the demand.

The refined oils have reacted to the change, along with the gasoline market. The refined oil beginning Saturday morning could be purchased for one cent on the gallon lower. The tank price is now 13 cents per gallon, one V. M. and P. naptha, 20 and one fourth per gallon, as announced by the Standard Oil Company. The Xenia Oil Company announced that the price will be 22 and one half straight, only one quality of gasoline being sold by this company. The High Test "gas" can be purchased at the filling stations but no definite price is set on this quality of the oil.

Like Hundreds of Others Found It Did the Work Where Other Remedies Failed.

Mrs. F. J. Clouser of 321½ Brady St., Dubois, Pa., told a Nerv-Worth representative in an interview the other day how she tried for a long time to get relief from stomach and nervous troubles, but met with no success until she found Nerv-Worth. She said she could not eat anything and keep it on her stomach, and she was so nervous that she could not sleep at nights. Numerous remedies had failed, but after taking Nerv-Worth, she reports that she can eat and sleep much better, and is only too glad to tell what it has done for her. Give Nerv-Worth a trial today, and remember if your first trial bottle is not satisfactory, your druggist is authorized to refund your money. Sold by leading druggists.

INVENTS DEVICE FOR DETECTION OF HIDDEN ICEBERGS

Paris.—A device to guard ships against approaching or distant icebergs is claimed to have been found by M. Larigaldie, of the French Society of Electricians.

Ever since the Titanic disaster, in 1912, this inventor has been working on a scheme whereby icebergs will be visible at many miles distance. Experiments conducted off the coast of Newfoundland aboard a French gunboat are said to have been conclusive, though not absoluately perfect. In working on his invention M. Larigaldie considered the dangers of iceburgs to shipping and the delays and expenses incurred by ships having to take more southerly courses during cold weather. If his invention proves successful the inventor claims that ships will henceforth be able to navigate in more northerly waters, and he hopes thereby to reduce both the danger of cross-Atlantic travel and the time needed to make the crossing.

The apparaus M. Larigaldie employed on his trials consisted of a gilded parabolical mirror, which can freely oscillate around its horizontal diameter. A heavy lead weight reduces its period of oscillation so as to render it insensible to the rolling of the ship. The axle of the apparatus directed toward the bow of the ship directly cuts the horizon. In the center of the mirror a special thermo-electrical coupling is placed, which carefully calorified is protected by sylvine, a highly transparent substance. Despite serious difficulties due in some measures to the narrow surface of the mirror, it was possible to notice a diminution of the current produced by the thermo-electrical coupling when an iceberg crossed the horizon at a distance of six knots. Expecting official aid, M. Larigaldie is fully confident he can improve greatly on his apparatus and that it will be rapidly adopted by all ocean going ships."

DIES AT AGE OF 80 EARLY TUESDAY

Miss Mary V. Kline, 80, died at the home of her niece, Mrs. Vincent Rolinson, of the Springfield pike, near Xenia, at 7:45 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Miss Kline, whose home is in Wilmington, has been failing in health for several years, and became bedfast in the latter part of February, at which time she came to Mrs. Rolison's home to live. Up until that time she had always made her home in Wilmington.

A sister, Mrs. Sarah Parlett, of Wilmington, is the nearest surviving relative. Mrs. Rolison is a niece and there are other nieces and nephews living in Missouri. Miss Kline was a member of the Friends Church in Wilmington. Funeral services will be held in that city but the arrangements have not yet been completed.

LOCAL LODGE OF ELKS STAGES ROUSING INITIATION MONDAY EVENING WHEN NINETEEN NEW MEMBERS ARE TAKEN IN

Local and visiting Elks froclicked Monday night, at the biggest initiatio" exercises held by the local lodge for many months, when nineteen new candidates were admitted into the mysteries of the order, and six former members were reinstated.

Members of Xenia Lodge No. 668 made a gala event of the initiation exercises. Wearing purple caps, carrying canes and wearing a huge badge with ribbons the purple color of Elkdom, the local Elks participated in a big parade at 7:30 o'clock headed by Exalted Ruler J. B. Bice and the Chamber of Commerce band.

Marching to the Pennsylvania depot the local lodge members met the degree team from the Columbus lodge, considered one of the best in the state and the entire party formed a parade that marched through the business section, and thence to the Elk's home at Second and Whiteman streets, where a banquet was served local members and visiting Elks. It is estimated that there were plates for 250 Elks, including 100 visitors from Columbus, Springfield, Lebanon, Middletown, Dayton, Washington, C. H., Hamilton and Wilmington.

Each candidate for Elkdom in the parade was decorated with a placard which proclaimed him a new candidate and these candidates by means of a long rope, pulled a carriage in which rode the six members who were reinstated in the lodge at the exercises Monday night. The new candidates were: Dean Hunt, Dr. LeRoy Haines, Ernest Beatty, W. N. Dawson, R. C. Ritenour, Fred Graham, John O'Brien, Henry J. Thomas, Glenn Donohoo, Ralph Holton, Ed Oster, Sid Smith, E. R. Bryant, J. W. Prugh, John Dewine, Dennis DeWine and Williams S. Burns. The six former members who were reinstated were Harry D. Smith, A. V. Perrill, H. L. Herrick, S. O. Hale, J. W. Santmyer and M. F. Barrows.

The Columbus degree team exemplified the degree work on the class of new candidates, and the meeting was followed by refreshments. Many Elks witnessed the initiation exercises, which were the most elaborate conducted here for some time.

ANSWERED LETTERS

Young Housekeeper: "Why can't I completely seal my jars before the process of sterilization in the Cold Pack Method of canning? Every time I can fruit the sirup leaks out of the jars into the canner but if I had the side wire clamped down this could not happen.

Answer: The cover on a glass jar must not be tight while processing because the air will expand when heated and if the cover is not loose enough to allow the steam to escape the pressure may blow the rubber out or break the jar. Do not try it. If you have had such poor success with the all-glass-top style of jar, try the Mason screw-top jar and partially seal it for sterization in this way—either screw it down with the entire right hand until it catches, then turn it a quarter of a round back; or else screw it down with the thumb and little finger not using force, but stopping when the cover catches. No doubt the wire bails on your old jars have become stretched and loosened.

Bride: "Will you please give me a short list of good representative preserves for a well-stocked preserve closet? I have no idea what to put up. I can't afford many things."

Answer: Send stamped self-addressed envelope for my article on "What Every Preserve Closet Should Have," which I have had printed up to send to readers who write for it. This list contains a recipe for one jelly, one jam, one fruit butter, one conserve (for guest meals), one relish and one pickle.

Mrs. G. "My Cousin used to make an uncooked salad dressing with condensed milk, egg, vinegar and mustard, but I have lost the recipe. Can you give it to me?

Answer: The following salad dressing recipe was sent in to me by a reader-friend, and it is a splendid one, and evidently the one you refer to:

Uncooked Salad Dressing: 1 egg, 1 can condensed milk, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 1 cup vinegar. Beat the egg, unseparated with a dover beater. Add the milk and beat until very light, then add the salt. Mix the mustard and vinegar together and stir them into the first mixture. This recipe makes almost 1 quart and keeps indefinitely if kept in the refrigerator. It is excelent for cold slaw and all kinds of salads,—fruit, meat or vegetables.

The Revolt of Vera Sanderson

By JANE PHELPS.

THE REVOLT OF VERA
VERA IS ACCUSED OF EXTRAVAGANCE.

CHAPTER 73.

It had been the first time that Margaret had even hinted that Keith might not be true to me. It was not so, I argued with myself. He had not been nice about my clothes because of anything wrong he had done. What had I said, that Mrs. De Lisle had taken him from business while I was spending his money might have made him lenient, but that he had yet done anything to really wrong me I did not believe. Yet her remark haunted me.

"Keith probably let you have all those clothes because he felt guilty," she had said.

I wanted to ask him if Alice De Lisle was anything to him save a friend but I had learned not to yield so quickly to impulse as I had when I was first married. I was still implusive, apt to jump at conclusions, but where Margaret and her sneering speeches were concerned I had grown a bit callous. So I said nothing, but watched Keith more closely than I had in some time.

I went to the bridge, although Margaret said it was selfish to leave so young a baby for my own pleasure. I wore my gray and blue dress with the lovely gray hat that Keith had helped me select. He compliment ed me when I was ready, and kissed me foundly.

"I believe being a mother has made you look younger rather than older," he said. "I never saw you look better."

"Part of it is because I selected my own dress, and, with your help, the hat, I foolishly answered.

"I had no reference to your clothes," he returned. I had not heard her, but Margaret had come up the stairs and had overheard my remark, and his answer. She said:

"She means that because I did not go with her, Keith. That dress is very attractive, but I am sure I could have made a far better bargain. But of course one could not expect Vera to be as careful with your money as I am."

"I don't understand Margaret! I never have been extravagant, never have paid as much for clothes as you do—even when Keith pays for them for you. I"—

"That wil do, Vert," Keith said coldly, interrupting me.

"Excuse me, Keith, I did not mean to lose my temper." I said, "but I never could endure being unjustly accused.

Margaret had turned and gone down the stairs.

My evening was spoiled just because I lost control of myself. I played a good game so god everyone spoke of it, but I was not happy. I had offended Keith when I offended Margaret. Would I never learn to keep still, to let her talk, even let her misrepresent me, and say nothing until Keith and I were alone? Even on the way home he scarcely spoke to me, Margaret not once although they kept up a running fire of conversation between them.

It was days before Margaret spoke to me. Even the children noticed and Gloria asked me what I had done to make her mother mad. I tried to act as usual, but it was hard.

I knew that the loss of the control of Keith's money had been one of the objections to his marriage; that what he spent for me, and now the baby, she felt she had been deprived of. I too let my feeling about my husband's money influence my actions. I felt more and more keenly that as I was his wife I had rights that his sister could not have. Now that we had little June to take care of I felt this even more emphatically. And as it had warped Margtret's mind toward me, it poisoned my mind toward her.

Sometimes I wonder if nearly all the sorrow and trouble in the world isn't traceable in some way to money. If Keith had been poor,real poor, earning just a small salary, Margaret could not have learned to depend upon him for luxuries she could not afford, neither would she have insisted we live with them.

I never visited Erma Longstreet that I did not go home with my heart filled with envy. Jim earned only enough to be comfortable, yet Erma had her own home, was absolute mistress of it, and of Jim, as he said laughingly when he wanted to tease her. They had to economize in many ways—cheap seats at the theater, the gallery at the opera, few clothes, and the like. But they were so contented and happy, so in love with each other and with life, that I felt like crying when I compared the atmosphere in which I lived with theirs.

"You have the whole of Jim," I once told her, "while I don't have half of Keith."

"Nonsense! You have a good deal more than you will believe. I am sure Mr. Sanderson is very fond of you."

"Yes—perhaps—as fond as Margaret will let him be."

"You must get him to give you a home of your own, Vera. Do all you can think of to have him realize how much happier you would be—and him too."

"Oh, Erma if I only could!"

It was my constant cry—oh, for a home of my own!

Tomorrow—Mother Sanderson Comes Home.

AN ADVERTISEMENT HELPED HER

Mrs. Lucille Mackey, 16 Buena Vista St., Washington, Pa., writes: "Last winter my 3-year-old girl caught a bad cold which left her with a dry cough. It bothered her most at night and she would cough until she vomited. I think she must have had whooping cough. I saw an advertisement for Foley's Honey and Tar. I tried it and bought two bottles and her cough left her before she finished the second bottle. She had gotten awfully thin but now she is as fat as ever." Sayre & Hemphill. adv

The Bulk Station—
Essential to Your Oil Supply

SOMEWHERE in nearly every city, town and hamlet of Ohio is the Standard Oil Bulk Supply Station, unnoticed perhaps, but playing its essential part in the life and industry of the community it serves.

Just as a city must depend for its water supply and its light on some central reservoir or station, so it must look to an adequate service for maintaining its supply of the vital products of petroleum necessary to its industry and its progress. The Standard Oil Bulk Station is prominent in this service, gauging the requirements of its field and maintaining the supply of fuels and lubricants which give light, heat, power and comfort.

Three hundred and more Standard Oil Bulk Stations dot the State of Ohio, located wherever the needs of people, of manufacturing and of farming have dictated. It is the aim of the Standard Oil Company of Ohio that this part of its distribution system shall always keep pace with the development of the State, ready always to serve where a new industry, a new activity, may spring up.

Standard Oil Bulk Station equipment has expanded with the constantly increasing army of motorists, for Red Crown Gasoline is one of the principal products handled through the bulk station. Automobile owners and drivers have been quick to realize the many advantages of this uniform fuel. Its complete range of boiling points gives full power at every engine speed. Snappy acceleration, plenty of pull on the hills and a quick response to a demand for speed are definite qualities of Red Crown Gasoline.

For dependable lubrication—Polarine Oil, Medium and Heavy, Polarine Transmission Lubricants and Polarine Cup Grease. Fill at the Red Crown Sign—Service Stations and Garages.
